AISNE BATTLE HALTED TO BURY THE DEAD

Four Hours Armistice at German Suggestion

German Cruiser Mainz Sinking Off Helgoland After Bombardment by the British

(Enlarged from a photograph taken by a British naval officer on the deck of the warship Liverpool.)

Copyright, 1914, by the Sun Publishing Co. Published in St. Louis by the Post-Dispatch by special arrangement with Illustrated London News.

THIS is the first naval battle photograph of the war. A naval Lieutenant gives this description of the action Aug. 28 in the Helgoland Bight, in which three German cruisers and four destroyers were sunk and many damaged. He says:

"After the destroyers came the Fearless, and she stayed on the scene, and soon we found she was engageing a three-funneler, the Mainz. So off we started again to go for the Mainz. Scarcely, however, had we started when from out of the mist and across our bow in furious pursuit came the first cruiser squadron, each unit a match for three like the Mainz, and as we looked and reduced speed they opened fire.

"Once we were in safety I hated it; we had just been having our own imaginations stimulated on the subject of shells striking us and a few minutes later to see another ship, not three miles away, reduced to a piteous mass of unrecognizability, wreathed in black fumes from which flared out angry gouts of fire, like Vesuvius in eruption, as an unending stream of hundred-pound shells burst on board; it just pointed the moral and showed us what might have been!"

The British destroyer seen in the photograph is backing away from the Mainz after taking off a number of her crew.

VON KLUCK TAKES OFFENSIVE, BUT HIS ATTACKS ARE REPULSED

French War Official Gives Line of Battle From the Somme River to the Lorraine Frontier—Prisoners Captured From Many German Army Corps.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS.

PARIS, Sept. 29, 3:01 p. m.—"On our left wing, along the River Somme," the French official statement issued this afternoon says, "the Germans attempted numerous attacks which the allies repulsed."

The text of the statement is as follows:

"FIRST: On our left wing, to the north of the Somme and between Somme and the Oise, the enemy both by day and by night, delivered several attacks which have, however, been repulsed.

"To the north of the Aisne there has been no change.

"SECOND: On the center, in Champagne, and to the east of the Argonne, the enemy has restricted his activities to heavy cannonading. Between the Argonne and the Meuse there had been slight progress on the part of our troops, who are confronted by strongly organized positions on the heights of the Meuse. In the Weovre district and on our right wing, in Lorraine, and the Vosges, there has been no notable modification in the situation.

"Generally speaking, our line runs from the east to the west through the region of Pont-a-Mousson, Apremont and the Meuse, through the region of St. Mihiel, along the heights to the north of Spada and through a portion of the heights of the Meuse to the southeast of Verdun. Between Verdun and Rheims, the general front is indicated by a line passing through the region of Varennes, to the north of Souain and the Roman roadway which runs into Rheims, the outposts of Rheims, the road from Rheims to Berry-au-Bac, and the heights known as the 'Chemin des Dames.'

"On the right bank of the Aisne this line then draws near to the Aisne and continues into the region of Soissons. Between Soissons and the Forest of L'Aigle it runs over the first plateau of the right bank of the Aisne. Between the Oise and the Somme, this line runs along the front from Ribecourt (which belongs to us) to Lassigny (occupied by the enemy) to Roye (which belongs to us) and to Chaulnes (in the possession of the enemy).

"To the north of the Somme, the line continues along the plateau between Albert and Combles.

"We again took many prisoners during the day of yesterday. They belong principally to the Seventh active corps and the Seventh reserve corps of the German army, and also to the Tenth, Twelfth, Fifteenth and Nineteenth German army corps."

NOTE.—Gen. von Kluck, who all but eliminated the British army around Mons and in the desperate retreat is in command of the German forces opposing the French left. His army has been the weak point in the German line ever since the allies turned and gave battle on the Marne.

Four Hours' Armistice to Bury Dead

The comparative calm yesterday, after Sunday's storm of shot and shell, was a surprise. It was supposed that the extreme violence of the German attack meant a determination to finish the campaign on the Aisne by breaking the allies' lines at all costs, and the pressure, it was expected, would continue, especially on the allies' left, where the Germans had brought up reinforcements. The center, however, was the only point seriously attacked, probably on the supposition that the line here has been weakened to reinforce the left.

One theory is that the armistice of four hours granted by the French for burying the dead was not sufficient and that the invaders needed the entire day to get rid of the bodies incumbering the trenches, and another is that a further shifting of troops is in progress preparatory to a violent shock elsewhere, all efforts against the left having failed.

Official reports indicate that the number of dead lying in the "No Man's Land" between the lines was very great. The innumerable charges which the Germans have directed at the allies' lines have brought their infantry out of the trenches or their cavalry over them, and each charge, as it was repulsed, left more dead and dying on the "dark and bloody ground" between the entrenchments. The battle has been on 18 days, and for more than a week, almost in the present field. The accumulation of carnage almost made the brief truce imperative.

In any case the opinion is prevalent here that the Germans are losing valuable time and that a return of the bad weather will perhaps find them still burrowing in the chalky clay of the Aisne district and that they will again be forced to uncover themselves by invading floods.

The military operations in the extreme east of the Vosges and in Alsace have been hindered by bad weather, as there is snow on the heights and floods in the valleys. The Rhine is much swollen, while the Doller, Ill and Thur rivers have overflowed. The plain between the Muelhausen and the mountains is under water to a great extent and it is impossible to move heavy artillery, which gives an advantage to the allies, who have comparatively light guns.

Both sides, however, are handicapped, and if the bad weather con-

RICHARD HARDING DAVIS TELLS HOW SHELLS LEFT DEVASTATION IN RHEIMS

By Richard Harding Davis.

Published Exclusively in St. Louis by the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1914, by the Wheeler Syndicate.)

PARIS, Sept., 25 (Delayed in Transmission).—This morning in the Paris papers, the official German excuse for the bombardment of Rheims was published. It states that the French batteries were so placed that, in replying to them, it was impossible to avoid shelling the city.

It would not be proper for me to tell where the French batteries were, but I know exactly where they were, and if the German guns aimed at them, by error missed them and hit the Cathedral, German marksmanship is deteriorating.

To find the range, the artillery sends what in the American army are called brace shots, one aimed at a point beyond the mark and one short of it. From the explosions of these two shells the gunner is able to determine how far he is off the target, and accordingly to regulate his sights.

Not more, at the most, than three of these experimental brace shots should be necessary, and one of each brace is purposely aimed to fall short of the target. So only three German shells, or, as there were two French positions, six German shells should have fallen beyond the batteries into the city. And yet for four days the city was bombarded.

To make sure, I today asked French, English and American army men what margin of error they thought excusable, after the range was determined. They all agreed that, after his range was found, an artillery officer who missed by 50 to 100 yards ought to be courtmartialed.

The Germans "missed" by one mile.

I walked over the district that had been destroyed by these accidental shots, and it stretched from the northeastern outskirts of Rheims in a straight line to the Cathedral. Shells that fell short of the Cathedral for a quarter of a mile destroyed entirely three city blocks. The heart of the district is the Place Godinot. In every direction, at a distance of a mile from the Place Godinot, I passed houses wrecked by shells, south at the Paris gate, north at the railroad station.

There is no part of Rheims that these shells aimed at the French batteries did not hit. If Rheims accepts the German excuse, she might suggest to them that the next time they bombard, if they aim at the city, they may hit the French batteries.

The Germans claim the damage done was from fires, not shells. But that is not the case; destruction by fire was slight. Houses wrecked by shells where there was no fire outnumbered those that were burning, 10 to 1. In no house was there probably any other fire than that in the kitchen stove and that had been smothered by falling masonry and tiles.

No Guard, No Looting.

Except for Red Cross volunteers seeking among the ruins for wounded, that part of the city that had suffered most was deserted. Shells still were falling and houses as yet intact, and those partly destroyed were empty. You saw pitiful attempts to save the pieces. In places, as though evictions were going forward, chairs, pictures, cooking pans, bedding, were piled in heaps. There was none to guard them; certainly there was no one so unfeeling as to disturb them

Scotland Most Generous in Sending Recruits for British Army

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 19.

FIGURES showing the percentage of recruits enlisted in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, as obtained from the Director of Recruiting and published in the Liverpool Courier, make Scotland appear as the most generous contributor of men. The approximate total number of men raised from Aug. 4 to Sept. 15 was 501,580, the percentage of recruits to the total male population being given as follows:

	Recruits.	Pct.
England	396,731	2.41
Scotland	64,444	2.79
Ireland	20,419	.92
Wales	19,966	1.84

THE EMDEN SINKS 4 MORE BRITISH SHIPS, 9 IN ALL

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The Official News Bureau announced today that the German cruiser Emden has sunk four British steamships and a collier.

The statement of the bureau is as follows:

"The Admiralty announces that the German cruiser Emden, during the past few days, has captured and sunk in the Indian Ocean the British steamers Tumeric, King Lud, Riberia and Foyle, and captured the collier Bursk.

"The crews of the above vessels were transferred to the steamer Gryfedale, which also was captured, but later released in order to take the crews to Colombo, where they arrived this morning."

The Emden has been operating in the Gulf of Bengal. She was reported recently at Madras, where she conducted a brief bombardment of that port, and later at Pondicherry.

The previous official British statement dealing with the activities of the German cruiser Emden, issued Sept. 20, told of the capture of six British steamers in the Bay of Bengal and the sinking of five of them. The names of the steamers were given as the Indus, Loval, Killin, Diplomat, Frabbock and Katinga. After creating havoc among the British shipping at Calcutta, the Emden went to Rangoon.

SPLENDOR OF NEW U. S. EMBASSY IN LONDON DAZZLING

Refugees Calling on Opening Day Think They Have Strayed Into King's Home.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1914, by Press Pub. Co.)

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The American Embassy opened for business with all comers this morning in new offices at 4 Grosvenor Gardens.

Naturalized American refugees from the Continent who called there thought they had visited Buckingham Palace by mistake, so magnificent and dazzling are Uncle Sam's present quarters.

Jeffersonian simplicity is noticeable only in the rooms where carpets have not yet been laid owing to haste in moving.

American residents in London who called to inspect the new embassy are speechless at its splendor. Respect for the United States, which has improved tremendously since the war began, took another upward leap.

The house is a skyscraper, according to London ideas, there being five stories and a sort of roof garden above. Each secretary has a room big enough to play tennis in and the Ambassador's sanctum is so spacious that it is necessary to use a magephone in speaking across it.

The top floor is a rabbit warren of smaller rooms, which the unmarried attaches are regarding covetously as possible bachelor apartments.

30 Mormons Get Out of War Zone After Difficulties

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Thirty Mormon missionaries, headed by Thomas Rees, Charles Lloyd and Julius West, appeared in the offices of the American Relief Committee today, having arrived in London, after much trouble, from the various war zones. Most of them came from Germany and Austria, but a few are from Belgium and France.

Those who had been in Germany and Austria had been arrested as English spies and they experienced some difficulty in proving their nationality.

Geneva Hears 2,000,000 Persons Are Idle in Germany

GENEVA, Sept. 29, via Paris.—A report received here from Munich estimates that 2,000,000 men and women are idle in Germany and that the number of unemployed is increasing daily.

Lack of raw material, it is said, is the cause.

Here Is a Picture of Soldiers' Life in Trenches on the Aisne

LONDON, Sept. 29.

A PICTURE of the sufferings of the troops, cramped in miles of underground trenches and galleries along the Aisne river, is given by the Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail. He says that the autumnal weather, with its warm sunshine in the day time, its dampness and bitterly cold dawns, is extremely trying to the men who are compelled to spend every minute in the same section of the damp trenches.

If the men creep from their trenches to the level ground, they do so at the risk of their lives. At night the chance of an unexpected attack from the allies' infantry are so great that every German soldier must be at his post in the narrow ditch, which is his home and defense, sleeping as best he may with his rifle at his side, ready to spring up at any moment at the alarms which come very frequently these dark, cloudy nights.

The nerves of the sentries are sorely tried. They mistake the most innocent sounds for French infantry creeping up. When a sentry, tricked by his nerves, fires his rifle, he brings the whole advanced post up with double-quick, and they find that there has been a false alarm. Such alarms come daif a dozen times on some nights, and they are very wearing on the troops.

The trench system is more elaborate. It constitutes a whole subterranean town with main thoroughfares, side streets and telephone wires, running all along. There hundreds of thousands of men eat, live and sleep, so well concealed that from a little way down the hill on the front, nothing is to be seen revealing the existence of trenches except the hardly noticeable little bank of earth, which is slightly raised above the level.

New Coins in France Will Have a Distinctive Sign

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—When the Bank of France transferred its headquarters to Bordeaux it destroyed all its bank note plates to avoid the possibility of their falling into the hands of those who might know how to make use of them in case the worst came to the worst.

The mint also was transferred to Castelsarrazin, where new coins of the denominations of two francs and one franc will be coined. These war coins will appeal particularly to collectors, as they will be honored with a distinctive sign to distinguish them from the general series, though bearing the same design.

King George Congratulates Father of 4 Jews in Army

LONDON, Sept. 29.—In behalf of King George, Lord Stamfordham sent the following message to J. Benjamin of Forest Gate, who has four sons serving in the army, three having recently joined:

"My Dear Sir—I am commanded by the King to congratulate you on having four sons serving His Majesty, of which you should be very proud. His Majesty wishes them to know he thoroughly appreciates their loyalty, which they share with so many thousands of others of Jewish persuasion in the United Kingdom."

Austria Seizes Property of Canadian Pacific in Vienna

VENICE, via Paris, Sept. 29.—The Austrian Government has confiscated the Canadian Pacific Railway Co.'s securities and money deposited in Vienna, it is reported, as well as the company's observation cars running on Austrian railroads. This has been done, it is said, as a consequence of the refusal of the company to pay the dividends of Austrian shareholders.

Italian newspapers at Trentin, Austria, have been forced to suspend publication. Italian residents are being kept under the closest surveillance.

Bunting in Berlin on Sedan Day Ordered Down by Kaiser

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 29.—The discovery of a new comet by Prof. C. T. Haggerty of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanical Art was announced by the Harvard College Observatory today. Berlin Denies Enemy Has Advanced

LONDON, Sept. 29.—A wireless dispatch to the Marconi company from Berlin gives the following official statement issued in the German capital yesterday:

"There is no change in the situation in any of the theaters of war, and reports concerning a victorious advance of the enemy are untrue.

"Reports of the fall of two of the Przemysl forts are inventions.

"The Austrian Government alleges that Russian troops have been using dumdum cartridges and in the course of their protest they remarked that it is not at present the intention of the commander-in-chief of the Austro-Hungarian army to adopt reprisals."

For the first time since the beginning of the war news sent out by the French government through the Eiffel tower station was received in London last night. The message, dated Sept. 28, follows:

"Feeling that their position was becoming more and more critical under the pressure of the allies' arms, the Germans have tried to stop us by repeating counter attacks. Since Sept. 26 they have delivered by day and night frequent and more violent attacks at several positions on our front. Everywhere they have been repulsed, sustaining considerable losses and abandoning as they lay, thousands of dead and wounded.

"The eighth army corps and the guards were severely put to the test and a large number of prisoners fell into our hands. It is to be remarked that many of the latter gave themselves up voluntarily, although they could have escaped.

"It seems that the German soldiers are beginning to have no further doubt as to the treament which awaits them, in captivity. At the beginning all those we captured had a terrified and supplicating attitude, arising out of statements made by their officers to the effect the French shot their prisoners. It is rather by an excess of kindness that we transgress in relation to them and the too kindly treatment which is meted out to prisoners in certain districts of France has even evoked complaints, which occasionally have been justified, on the part of all those who know how our men are treated in Germany.

Weather Conditions Grow Worse

LONDON, Sept. 29.—In the battle along the Western front, in Northern France, weather conditions are again figuring. The Germans, who are reported to be exhausted by their strenuous marches, are said to suffer especially, as they occupy trenches which do not drain readily.

The latest official communications from Paris report that conditions on the allied left wing are favorable, while the troops in the center have successfully resisted the violent German attempts to break the French line.

The most significant portion of the communication asserts that the allies have progressed slightly and another report, which if true is significant, comes from a Brussels traveler who asserts that large numbers of battle-wearied German troops are arriving there from France.

Regiment Fights 3 Days, Refuses Reinforcements, Carries a Hill

(Copyright, 1914, by Press Pub. Co.)

PARIS, Sept. 29.—As an illustration of the spirit that animates the French regiments, the story is told of an incident at Soissons, where, after three days' incessant fighting a single infantry regiment, which had assaulted the enemy's position time and again, was compelled to retire. At the close of the third day, by a bayonet charge they had gained a height which covered the German position, but the latter were on a neighboring hill, where they were busy digging intrenchments.

It was necessary to carry the position before the digging was finished, if it was to be taken at all, so the commanding officer, recognizing the exhausted condition of his troops, sent for reinforcements, whom he ordered to charge.

The regiment felt humiliated at the call for reinforcements and petitioned their Colonel to be allowed to finish the work themselves. Permission was reluctantly given, and despite their previous 72 hours of arduous fighting, the remains of the regiment charged up the hill and carried it by assault. They lost heavily in their effort, but their pride had been satisfied

Carpentier Wounded.

The Figaro, as an instance of how little news reaches the French capital from the front, except in official bulletins, quotes a London dispatch concerning the wounding of Carpentier, the French boxing champion, who is at the front.

Great satisfaction is expressed because of the failure of the Prussian Imperial Guard to break through the French center. Lieutenant-Colonel Rousset, the military expert of the Liberte, says great and continual demands have been made upon this famous regiment, and it is probable that they are exhausted by the tremendous strain.

The Matin, referring to the Guards, says that every time the Germans play their "last card," the Imperial Guards spring from their ashes like another Phoenix and make a vigorous attack upon the allies.

"They are certainly soldiers without the fear of death in them," says the Matin, "yet our men have once more repelled them."

The Paris newspapers are so limited in their war news that it may well be said the "lid" is riveted on them. Trying to comment upon the general situation, they are reduced, because of the restrictions upon such comments, to the merest banalities. Their columns show more white space than printed matter, indicating where the censor has deleted considerable portions of the news.

The new regulation, forbidding the approach to the fighting lines of any war correspondent, has filled the city with despondent war specialists.

STOPPED FIVE MINUTES FOR WATER, LOST TWENTY LIVES.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—A Standard correspondent at Bordeaux sends the following dispatch:

"I have been talking with a British cavalry officer who is in the hospital here, but is allowed to take short walks abroad daily. After he was hurt at the front, he managed to lie down in one of these trucks which are the best the Red Cross can get in France. Some of them are supplied with cots, but in this particular instance straw was all he had to lie on for three days. He had nothing to eat except a few grapes and some very stale bread, after fighting for 16 and 18 hours a day through several days.

"In the early retreat, craving for water at a village cost his force dearly. Just five minutes enabled the Germans to get their machine guns on them, emptying more than a score of saddles. At this time a benevolent old lady stepped out with a bucket of plums for the officers and men, who had not eaten a thing in 48 hours. She was shot dead before their eyes, though not, perhaps, from design.

"In the same hospital is a German officer, and he confirms in every respect what others have said—that their Generals have one great idea, to try to crush the British troops at any cost. They think they would have been in Paris long ago but for the brilliant stand of the small British army."

Battle of Aisne a Soldiers' Battle; Infantry Chief Factor.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—In his review of the situation of the battle in Northern France, the Paris correspondent of the Times says:

"The French left continues to make progress. On the other hand, the Germans have attained no appreciable advantage from their success on the heights of the Meuse. The breach they made is too narrow to permit of the passage of the Meuse by forces in sufficient numbers.

"Nothing decisive has yet occurred, but the scanty news available is certainly to the advantage of the allies rather than of the enemy. The furious battle of the Aisne is a soldier's battle, in the sense that ground is won, and the final victory must be attained by the courage and tenacity of the infantry. On no point along the gigantic line has the Anglo-French wall been pierced.

"The German center still holds strongly. In fact, it seems clear, as pointed out by Col. Rousset, the military critic of the Liberte, that the Germans have received orders to break through the French lines anywhere and at any cost. The Russian steam roller has come too close to be any longer disregarded, and it is felt by the German staff that a decisive success must be won against the allies in the western theater of war, in order that Germany may be able to turn its attention with some assurance to the victorious advance of the Russians in the eastern theater.

"The enemy continues to fight with great fury at certain points of the line, though the action is generally less intense along the immense battle front. A narrow strip of territory which they succeeded in gaining as the result of violent attacks was immediately rewon by the allies, who captured cannon, prisoners and flags."

Aviator Describes Flying View of Long Battle Front

LONDON, Sept. 29.

A LETTER from an officer of the Royal Flying Corps, under date of Sept. 4, describing a view from an aeroplane of the battle eastward of Paris, says:

"Yesterday I was up for reconnoissance over this huge battle. I think it will be remembered as the biggest in history. It extends from Compiegne right away to Belfort.

"We flew at five o'clock in the evening. At that time the British guns all opened fire together. From a height of 5000 feet I saw a sight which I hope it will never be my lot to see again. The woods and hills were literally cut to ribbons all along the south of Laon. It was marvelous, watching hundreds of shells bursting below me to the right and to the left for miles, and then to see the German guns replying."

Writing again Sept. 19, the same officer says:

"The huge battle is still going on. Our machines, after being out all day, still bring in the same news. The Germans have got into one of the strongest positions possible. Fortunately, reinforcements are arriving and coming up against the German right at Soissons."

The officer mentioned that the aeroplanes are shot at and shelled by friend and foe every time they ascent. They hardly ever descend without bullet holes all over the planes, but fortunately, the writer says, the flying corps had lost only one pilot and passenger up to Sept. 4.

Expert Says Germany's Colonial Losses Show Value of Naval Power

By the Military Expert of the New York Evening Sun.

Published in St. Louis Exclusively in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch by Special Arrangement With the Sun.

GERMAN colonial activity is, in the main, a post-Bismarckian development. For the Iron Chancellor, remote, insanitary African holdings were not worth the bones of a single Pomeranian grenadier. To the close of his public career Bismarck concentrated his attention, his interest, upon Europe. It was only after he was sent into retirement that Germany tardily entered the race for possessions beyond the seas.

The new policy brought with it new perils and new rivalries. It was natural that modern Germany, breaking her flag out on every sea, year after year distancing ancient rivals and pressing close upon English heels, should view with resentment a condition in which her ships were at the mercy of the English, the French, even the Portuguese and the Dutch colonial ports. Nowhere about the seven seas was Germany in possession of naval or commercial bases as even the most insignificant of nations possessed.

To repair the situation, the successors of Bismarck hastily endeavored to plant the German flag upon the remaining territories not yet taken up by the other nations. Thus Togoland, Kamerun, German Southwest Africa and German East Africa were acquired; Samoa, Kaiser Wilhelmsland and Spanish islands in the Pacific were annexed or purchased. Ten years ago the world map began to show considerable areas bearing the German colors.

Yet while Germany was doing this, France acquired Madagascar, made good her empire from the Mediterranean to the Niger and the Congo, extended her frontier in Indo-China, began the absorption of Morocco. Great Britain conquered the Boer Republic, the United States the Philippines and Porto Rico. Even little Belgium came into possession of the vast Congo Free State, incomparably superior to all the colonial acquisitions of the mighty German Empire. Italy, Germany's ally, but still a rival, took Tripoli, the last waste place on the North African coast.

Cause of Discontent.

Thus, looking back over German official and unofficial comment during the past decade, there is noticeable the ever-growing bitterness and dissatisfaction there disclosed over the failure of Germany to acquire its "place in the Sun"—the manifest injustice that was patent in the distribution of overseas lands. There had been alloted to France, with a stationary population, to Great Britain, inferior in its European population, splendid colonial territories, capable of receiving European immigrants; while Germans, without colonies, possessed of an ever-growing population, were compelled to lose nationality when they emigrated, and German industrial prosperity was threatened by the ever-increasing number of lands in which hostile tariffs handicapped German exports.

The Moroccan incident, aside from its merely political aspect, appealed to the whole German public, because it represented to them an effort to prevent the annexation by France of the last considerable African territory in which German manufacturers might find a market, and German colonists and merchants a foothold. Year by year Germany was consciously growing stronger, yet year by year she was being outdistanced by feebler rivals in that partition of the surface of the earth which carried with it the commercial prosperity of the future.

British Were Blamed.

In developing the German attitude toward England, toward France, toward Russia, an attitude which made for war, as is wholly demonstrable by reference to Von Bernhardi's book, resentment at the unfairness of colonial division played no inconsiderable part. It was, too, mainly directed against England, because it was recognized that, but for British support, French colonies would have followed the fate of Alsace-Lorraine. The British conquest of the Boer republic, too, closed to Germany the last attractive home for her surplus population desiring to remain German in tongue and sympathy.

Such was the colonial emotion of Germany prior to the war. Now, what has been the effect of the great struggle upon her insignificant "place in the sun," so inadequate in German eyes, yet precious in the promise of the future?

First of all, on the morning of the declaration of war, France and England, from Dahomey and the Gold Coast, stepped over into Togoland, seized the port, overran the shore, and after a mere formal resistance upon the part of a helpless colonial Governor, extinguished German authority there.

Hard on this came the Japanese attack upon Kiauchau, still persisting, but certain to end in the capture by Japan of Germany's only foothold in Asia, on which she has lavished millions, and for which she had planned a great future, conceiving it to be the base from which she was to challenge British influence at Hongkong and French influence in Indo-China.

Despoiled in Pacific.

Then, in the Pacific, Australian and New Zealand expeditions have taken Germany's Samoan fort and island, Kaiser Wilhelmsland, and the eventual seizure of the islands purchased from Spain is to be expected. Taken by Australia and New Zealand, they will patently be hereafter included in the Anglo-Saxon Empire of the South Pacific and will be lost permanently, as Kiauchau must be.

In Africa we have recent reports of British operations against German Southwest Africa. This colony has always been a thorn in the British side Held by Germany, it would be a base for hostile intrigue on the flank of the South African colonies, as it included a part of the gold and diamond fields. To acquire it, Germany on her part has paid dearly in blood and treasure in the Herero war. Now, armies from the Union of South Africa, officered, such is the irony of fate, by the Boer Generals on whom Germany relied to promote revolt in the Transvaal, are being directed against this colony, indefensible with the resources possessed by its Governor. Its fall and inclusion in the South African Union is almost inevitable.

On the East Coast there is that prosperous colony, through which Germany has just completed a railway to Lake Tanganyika from Dar-es-Salaam. With the Kamerun and the Belgian Congo to be acquired by forcible annexation later, this was to be Germany's most considerable "place in the Sun." But the British have bombarded Dar-es-Salaam, have begun an invasion from the south. Once this colony is taken, the sole obstacle to Cecil Rhodes' Cape-to-Cairo "all red" dream is extinguished. Does anyone suppose that, conquered, it will be relinquished?

Finally from Kamerun, on the west coast, only recently extended by French "compensation" toward the Congo and the Ubangi, come reports of French and British activities at Duala, at Cöco Beach, of the surrender of German officials helpless in the presence of warships and French and English colonial forces from Nigeria and French Congo. Plainly, France will strive here to retake her surrendered territory and restore her interrupted grasp from the Mediterranean to the Congo.

While the attention of the world is fixed upon the battlefields of Western Europe, it is clear that the German colonial possessions on two continents are becoming the prey of her opponents. So Louis XIV and Napoleon saw their overseas territories vanish. So France lost Quebec and India. Thus, once more, sea power is proving its tremendous value in a world war.

Bartholdt's Statements Are Denied by French Embassy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—An official statement was issued yesterday by the French embassy, drawing attention to the remarks of Congressman Bartholdt of St. Louis at the celebration of German day in New York Sunday, and denying Bartholdt's assertion that Frederick the Great sent Baron von Steuben to America.

The statement declared that Von Steuben was sent from Paris to aid the American colonies, on a French ship and that his passage was paid with French money. It further asserted that Frederick the Great was not friendly to the Americans and that he refused to receive the emissary sent to him by the colonies to ask for his support.

Bosnians Said to Greet Servians and Montenegrins as Liberators.

ROME, via Paris, Sept. 29.—Dispatches from Nish, Servia, say the Servians and Montenegrins have been greeted by the Bosnians as liberators. Bosnian volunteers to the number of 5300 have joined the Servian army, it is said.

Big Champagne Crop in Danger, Davis Reports

I saw neither looting nor any effort to guard against it.

In their common danger and horror, the citizens of Rheims of all classes seemed drawn closely together. The manner of all was subdued and gentle, like those who stand at an open grave.

The shells played the most inconceivable pranks. In some streets the houses and shops along one side were entirely wiped out, and on the other untouched. In the Rue Du Cardinal Du Lorraine every house was gone. Where they once stood were cellars filled with powdered stone. Tall chimneys, that one would have thought a strong wind might dislodge, were holding themselves erect, while the surrounding walls three feet thick had crumbled into rubbish. In some houses a shell had removed one room only, as neatly as though it were the work of masons and carpenters. It was as though the shells had a grievance against the lodger in that particular room.

War's Havoc With Art.

The waste was appalling. Among the ruins I saw a good painting in rags and in gardens statues, covered with the moss of centuries, smashed. In places, still on the pedestal, you would see a headless Venus or a flying Mercury chopped off at his waist. Long streamers of ivy that during a century had crept higher and higher up the wall of some noble mansion until they were part of it, still clung to it, although it was divided into a thousand fragments. Of one house, all that was left standing was a slice of the front wall, just wide enough to bear a sign reading: "This house is for sale, elegantly furnished." Nothing else of this house remained.

In some streets of the destroyed area I met no living person. My feet, kicking the broken glass, made the only sound. The silence, the gaping holes in the sidewalk, the ghastly tributes to the power of the shells, and the complete desolation, made more desolate by the bright sunshine, gave you a curious feeling that the end of the world had come and you were the only survivor. This impression was aided by the sight of many rare and valuable articles, with no one guarding them. They were things of price that one may not carry into the next world, but which in this are kept under lock and key.

In the Rue de la Universite, at my leisure, I could have ransacked shop after shop, or from the shattered drawing rooms could have filled my pockets. Shopkeepers had gone without waiting to lock their doors, and in houses, the fronts of which were down, you could see that in order to save their lives the inmates had fled at a moment's warning.

Children Forsake Toys.

In one street a high wall extended an entire block, but in the center a howitzer shell had made a breach as large as a barn door. Through this I had a view of an old and beautiful garden, in which oasis nothing had been disturbed. Hanging from the walls on diamond-shaped lattices roses were still in bloom, and along the gravel walks flowers of every color raised their petals to the sunshine.

On the terrace was spread a tea service of silver, and on the grass were children's toys, hoops, tennis balls and, flat on its back, staring up wide-eyed at the shells, a large, fashionably dressed doll.

In another house everything was destroyed except the marble mantelpiece over the fireplace in the drawing room. On this stood a terra cotta statue of Harlequin. It is one you often have seen. The legs are wide apart, the arms folded, the head thrown back in an ecstacy of laughter. It looked exactly as if it were laughing at the wreckage with which it was surrounded. No one could have placed it where it was after the house fell, for the approach to it was still on fire. Of all the fantastic tricks played by the bursting shells, it was the most curious.

Outside the wrecked area were many shops belonging to American firms, but they had escaped injury. They were filled with American typewriters, sewing machines and cameras. A number of cafes bearing the sign "American bar" testified to the nationality and taste of many tourists.

Visits American Consul.

I found our Consul, William Bardel, at the Consulate. He is a fine type of the German-American citizen, and since the war began, with his wife and son, has held the fort and tactfully looked after the interests of both Americans and Germans.

On both sides of him shells had damaged the houses adjoining. The one across the street had been destroyed and two neighbors killed. The street in front of the Consulate is a mass of fallen stone, and the morning I called on Mr. Bardel a shell had hit his neighbor's chestnut tree, filled his garden with chestnut burrs and blown out the glass of his windows. He was patching them with brown wrapping paper, but was chiefly concerned because in his own garden, the dahlias were broken.

During the first part of the bombardment, when the firing became too hot for him, Mr. Bardel had retreated with his family to the corner of the street, where are the cellars of the Roderers, champagne people. There are worse places in which to hide than a champagne cellar, and I hope that Secretary Bryan will not hold it against him. He had no choice. In Rheims the grape juice cellars are very few.

Champagne Crop in Danger.

Mr. Bardel has lived six years in Rheims. He estimates the damage by shells at $30,000,000, and he says that unless the seat of military operations is removed the champagne crop for this year will be entirely wasted. It promised to be an especially good year. The seasons were propitious, being dry when sun was needed and wet when rain was needed, but unless the grapes are gathered this week the crops will be lost.

Of interest to Broadway is the fact that in Rhimes, or rather in her cellars, are stored nearly 50,000,000 bottles of champagne, belonging to six of the best-known champagne houses. Should the German shells reach these bottles, the high price of living in the lobster palaces will be proportionately increased.

I was delayed in sending this dispatch because, outside of Rheims, at a certain place, with my companions, Geraid Morgan of McClure's Magazine, Ashmead Bartlett of the London Daily Telegraph and Capt. Granville Fortescue, I was arrested. Under escort, we were taken to Paris. Once there, every courtesy was shown us.

We were detained only one night at the headquarters of the general staff. The following morning Mr. Herrick, our Ambassador, acting through our military attache, Col. Spencer Cosby, arranged that we should be set at liberty on our giving our word that for eight days we would not leave Paris or in any way communicate with anyone concerning what movements of the allies we might have seen.

Arrest an Old Story.

As the destruction of Rheims does not come in that category, I have concluded the account of my visit to that city at the point where gendarmes so abruptly interrupted it.

The story of our arrest my companions can tell. This year I have been so frequently in jail that your readers must be as weary of it as I am. Then again, perhaps I flatter myself. In any case, I would be ungrateful if I did not acknowledge the prompt assistance of Mr. Herrick and Col. Cosby and the courtesy of French officers of the general staff. We were less prisoners than their guests, and should I be invited to spend another week end in Cherchemidi Prison I would accept with pleasure. But I have a feeling that the next time I am arrested it will not be in Europe, for trying to see this war, but in Westchester County, N. Y., for auto speeding. I have investigated enough European jails. At home there must be some equally bad. One should see America first.

FORCES DRIVE HARD AGAINST GERMANS

General Staff Announces That Sorties by Przemysl Garrison Have Been Unsuccessful—Petrograd Bankers Give Czar $1,000,000 for War.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—An official communication issued at Budapest, according to a Rome dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co., admits that the Russians have succeeded in crossing the Hungarian frontier at several points in the Ung district, desp'te the fact that reinforcements have been sent against them.

Ung is a county in the northeastern part of Hungary. Its capital, Ungvar, is 150 miles due south of Przemsyl.

By Associated Press.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 29.—The following official communication from the chief of the General Staff regarding the Russian operations has been given out here:

"Russian troops are driving fast on the offensive in the forest of Augustowo, in Russian Poland, Province of Suwalki. The Germans are using heavy siege artillery in the bombardment of the fortress of Ossowetz. An attempt by the German infantry to close in on the fortress has been checked.

"On the front of Silesia the enemy has been greatly reinforced and shows much activity.

Przemysl Sorties Unsuccessful.

"Sorties by the garrison of Przemysl have not been successful. Many prisoners, a number of cannon and some stores of ammunition have fallen into our hands.

"As the Austrian retreat in Galicia continues, great confusion is noticeable in the ranks.

"At Tsarkoe-Selo on Sept. 23 the Emperor received delegates from the Petrograd banks, who placed at his disposal 1,000,000 rubles ($500,000) for the necessities of war, and another million for the organization of a hospital service and to aid the families of soldiers at the front. The Empress Alexandra and the Dowager Empress Maria Feodorovna were present at the audience."

Col. Shumsky, military critic of the Bourse Gazette, comments on the success of the Russians in operating through the Carpathians as one of the most notable in military history.

"Despite the generally accepted idea," he says, "that Russian troops are unable to operate in the mountains as shown in the Manchurian campaign, the Russians on this occasion proved that under able leadership they are able to conquer alike on the plains or in the mountains."

"Niemen Campaign Insignificant."

Referring to events on the River Niemen, Col. Shumsky says:

"It is essential to determine whether the Germans will be able to compel the Russians to refrain from the operations in the Carpathians in order to rush to the Niemen."

He believes the operations on the Niemen, even in the event of German success, of which he says there are very few indications, will not have decisive significance, while the Russian operations in Galicia and in the Carpathians will influence the whole course of the campaign.

The correspondent of the Novoe Vremya reports that the Austrians are suffering from a shortage of food.

Messenger Says Russians Have Almost Cleared Galicia of Foe.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—A Petrograd dispatch to the Reuter's Telegram Co. states that an army messenger has announced that the Russians have almost cleared Galicia of the enemy who has taken refuge in the passes of the Carpathian Mountains. The same source confirms the reports of the progressive destruction of the Austrian army.

An eyewitness states that two German army corps took part in the battle of Jaroslau, according to the same dispatch. Russians had to take most of the enemy's trenches at the point of the bayonet.

A Petrograd dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. says the Russian moratorium has been extended a month.

BRITISH ARRANGE FOR EXCHANGE OF WAR PRISONERS

List of Those Held in England and in Germany Sent Through U. S. Embassy.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The British and German Governments have begun exchanging lists of prisoners of war. This is being done through Walter H. Page, the American Ambassador in London, and is preparatory to arranging an actual exchange of prisoners.

The first lists passed through the American Embassy today. They were not very extended, but additional lists are expected shortly. Up to the present time these exchanges have been arranged only for women, and children and men over 55 years or less than 18 years old, or physically disabled.

The War Office promises a speedy publication of the lists of English prisoners in Germany to relieve the anxiety of relatives.

Rufus Isaacs, Awaiting Call to the Front, Is Married

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Rufus Isaacs, the only son of Lord Reading, married today Eva Mond, daughter of Sir Alfred and Lady Mond. The bride being a Protestant and the bridegroom a Jew, there were two ceremonies.

Isaacs is training with a regiment of the Court Corps, and expects to be called into active service. The wedding has taken place two months earlier than originally intended.

French Occupy Greater Part of Ceded Congo Territory

PARIS, Sept. 29.—"It is officially announced that the French forces in equatorial Africa have reoccupied the greater part of the Congo territory ceded to Germany by the treaty of 1911," says the Bordeaux correspondent of the Havas Agency.

"Brummer" (Growler) Is German Soldiers' Name for Big New Siege Gun

Correspondence of Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.

THE new German 42-centimeter (16.8-inch) siege gun, Germany's big surprise on the allies in the land campaign, has received its nickname. The Germans, from privates to general staff officers, call the new gun the "Brummer."

"Brummer" means grumbler or growler, and is a word sometimes applied to a bellowing bull. The official North German Gazette, in speaking of the nickname, says the appellation shows how popular the gun has become with the army. "One cannot be astonished," says the Gazette, "that a shot which hurls with accuracy a weight of 800 pounds over a space of a German mile to its goal, causes an atmospheric pressure which, for miles around, hurls everything into the air. Reports have shown that the projectile, after it has left the mortar, causes a great noise only by cutting through the air."

JAPANESE TROOPS NOW COMPLETELY INVEST TSINGTAU

Germans Are Driven Back on Main Line of Defense and Enemy Commands Heights.

AEROPLANES IN THE FIGHT

Three German Warships Inside Harbor and Japanese Squadron Engaged in Battle.

By Associated Press.

PEKIN, China, Sept. 29.—The Germans in Kiauchau have evacuated the Waldersee line of defense before an overwhelming force of the enemy. Tsingtau is now completely invested.

This information is contained in a dispatch received from a German source at Tsinan, Shantung, which evidently is a wireless communication from Tsingtau. It adds that the Japanese armored cruiser squadron bombarded Tsingtau Monday without doing any damage.

Japanese official reports corroborate the foregoing and explain that the engagement occurred Monday morning. They declare further that the Germans are now back on their main line of defense, five miles from Tsingtau, and that Japanese troops occupy heights commanding the lines which the Germans now hold. Three German warships inside Tsingtau harbor and two Japanese aeroplanes participated in the fighting.

Chinese officials would not say tonight whether the blowing up of the railroad bridge at Tayuho, six miles west of Weihsien, by Chinese troops, had been ordered by the Government or not. It has been learned, however, that the Japanese Minister here informed the Foreign Office yesterday that the Japanese intended to occupy the railroad into Tsinan, the capital of Shantung province. To this the Foreign Office refused to agree.

The information was obtained in high quarters today that it is the wish of President Yuan Shi Kai to avoid trouble with the Japanese. The military men of China, however, are under German influence and a large number of Chinese troops recently have been mobilized in Shantung province.

Chinese Troops Blow Up Bridge West of Wei-Hsien.

By Associated Press.

WEI-HSIEN, Shantung, China, Sept. 29.—Chinese troops today blew up and destroyed the railroad bridge at Tayu-Ho, six miles west of here.

The sound of the explosion could be heard in this city.

The above dispatch is the first indication that Chinese troops have taken any active part in opposing the military operation of the Japanese in Shantung Province in the latter's campaign against the Germans in the leased territory of Kiauchau.

To facilitate this campaign the Japanese landed in Chinese territory. At this China protested, but the protest was ignored by Japan. Recent dispatches from Pekin said the Chinese believed the Japanese intended to capture all the railroad stations to the west of Weihsien. Three hundred Japanese cavalrymen left Weihsien recently, going west along the railroad.

Three British Cruisers Arrive at Punta Arenas, Chile.

PUNTA ARENAS, Chile, Sept. 29.—The British cruisers Good Hope, Monmouth and Glasgow, under the command of Rear Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock, arrived here today.

Punta Arenas is on the Strait of Magellan and all vessels going through the strait from the Atlantic to the Pacific stop there. It is evident that the British Admiralty has decided to send these cruisers into the Pacific for these three cruisers sailed from Montevideo between the 9th and 11th of September.

Craft Puts In on North Peruvian Coast; Probably the Nuernberg.

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 29.—An unidentified vessel entered the Port of Paita, on the northern Peruvian coast, last night. Her identity has not been established, but she is believed to be the German cruiser Nuernberg.

British Swamped With Offers of Aid for the Belgians

LONDON, Sept. 29.—England has come to the relief of the stricken Belgian refugees with such spontaneous magnanimity that the refugees' committee has had to decline many of the offers of shelter. The authority for this statement is Lord Gladstone, former Governor-General of South Africa, who is now a leader in the committee work.

Six thousand Belgians already have been placed in private homes, while 2000 are in the London depots awaiting distribution. Five hundred came in yesterday and some 2000 others are scattered in lodging and boarding houses, for whose keep the Government has assumed the responsibility. Seventy tons of clothing and other supplies have been donated for the unfortunates.

BRITISH OFFICIAL REPORT; HISTORIAN FERRERO DISCUSSES ENGLAND'S ACTION

BATTLE RESEMBLES SIEGE WARFARE, SAYS BRITISH REPORT

Communication From Gen. French's Headquarters Tells How British Aviator Who Had Annoyed Germans Was Wounded in Mid-Air Battle When Trying to Get Into Shooting Position, but Escaped to Own Lines.

The following account of the fighting in France was prepared by an officer attached to the staff of Sir John French, the British commander. Besides giving a graphic description of the action on the ground and in the sky, he makes clear what has been referred to in previous reports—that the action has taken on the nature of a siege. This would indicate that the battle may go on indefinitely.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The official press bureau issued last night a descriptive account of the operations in France of the British force and the French armies in immediate touch with it, communicated by an eye-witness present at the headquarters of Field Marshall John French. This account, which supplements that issued Sept. 24 from general headquarters, follows:

"Sept. 25, 1914—For four days there has been a comparative lull all along our front. This has been accompanied by a spell of fine weather, though the nights are now much colder. One cannot have everything, however, and one evil result of the sunshine has been the release of flies, which were torpid during the wet days.

"Advantage has been taken of the arrival of reinforcements to relieve by fresh troops the men who have been on the firing line for some time. Several units, therefore, have received their baptism of fire during the week.

"Since the last letter left general headquarters evidence has been received which points to the fact that during counter attacks on the night of Sunday, Sept. 20, the German infantry fired into each other as the result of an attempt to carry out the dangerous expedient of a converging advance in the dark.

"Opposite one portion of our position a considerable massing of hostile forces were observed before dark, and some hours later a furious fusillade was heard in front of our line, though no bullets came over our trenches.

Better Weather Maintained Since Sept. 21.

"This narrative begins with Sept. 21 and covers only two days. On Monday, Sept. 21, there was but little rain and the weather took a turn for the better, which has been maintained. The action was practically confined to the artillery, our guns at one point shelling and driving away the enemy, who were endeavoring to construct a redoubt. The Germans for their part expended a large number of heavy shells in a long range bombardment of a village.

"Reconnoitering parties sent out during the night of Sept. 21-22, discovered some deserted trenches and in them, or near them, in the woods, over 100 dead and wounded were picked up. A number of rifles, ammunition and equipment also were found. There were other signs that portions of the enemy's forces had withdrawn for some distance.

"Tuesday, 22, was also fine, with less wind, and was one of the most uneventful days that has passed since we reached the Aisne—uneventful, that is, for the British. There was less artillery work on either side, the Germans, nevertheless, giving another village a taste of the 'Jack Johnsons' (shells from the German heavy guns which throw off a heavy black smoke).

"The spot thus honored was not far from the ridge where some of the most severe fighting in which we have taken part has occurred. All over this 'No Man's Land' between the lines the bodies of German infantry are still lying in heaps, where they have fallen at different times.

"Espionage plays so large a part in the conduct of the war by the Germans that it is difficult to avoid further reference to the subject. They have evidently never forgotten the saying of Frederick the Great: 'When Marshal Soubise goes to war he is followed by a hundred cooks; when I take the field I am preceded by a hundred spies.'

"Indeed, until about 20 years ago, there was a paragraph in their field service regulations directing that the service of 'protection in the field'—e. g., outposts and advanced guards—should always be supplemented by a system of espionage.

Methods of German Spying Are Detailed.

"Though such instructions are no longer made public the Germans, as is well-known, still carry them into effect. Apart from the more elaborate arrangements, which were made in times of peace for obtaining information by paid agents, some of the methods which are being employed for the collection or conveyance of intelligence are as follows:

"Men in plain clothes signal to the German lines from points in the hands of the enemy by means of colored lights at night and puffs of smoke from chimneys by day. Pseudo laborers working in the fields between the armies have been detected conveying information and persons in plain clothes have acted as advanced scouts to the German cavalry when advancing.

"German officers and soldiers in plain clothes, or in French or British uniforms, have remained in localities evacuated by the Germans in order to furnish them with intelligence. One spy of this kind was found by our troops hidden in a church tower. His presence was discovered only through the erratic movements of the hands of the church clock, which he was using to signal to his friends by means of an improvised semaphore code. Had this man not been seized it is probable he would have signaled to the German artillery at the time of their arrival the exact location of the headquarters and staff. A high explosive shell would then have mysteriously dropped on the building.

"Women spies also have been caught; secret agents have been found at the railroads observing entrainments and detrainments. It is a simple matter for spies to mix with the refugees moving about to their homes; difficult for our troops, who speak neither French nor German, to detect them.

"The French have found it necessary to search villages and also casual wayfarers on the roads for carrier pigeons. Among the precautions taken by us to guard against spying is the publication of the following notice printed in French and posted:

"'1. Motor cars and bicycles not carrying soldiers in uniforms may not circulate on the roads.

Inhabitants May Not Leave Villages Between 6 P. M. and 6 A. M.

"'2. The inhabitants may not leave the localities where they reside between 6 p. m. and 6 a. m.

"'3. Inhabitants may not quit their homes after 8 p. m.

"'4. No person may on any pretext pass through the British lines without an authorization, countersigned by a British officer.'

"Events have moved so quickly during the last two months that anything connected with the mobilisation of the British expeditionary force is now ancient history. Nevertheless, the following extract of a German order is evidence of the mystification of the enemy and is a tribute to the value of secrecy, well and loyally maintained at the time in England:

"'Tenth Reserve Army Headquarters, Mont St. Guibert, Aug. 20, 1914, 2:40—Corps order, 21st August: The French troops in front of the Tenth Army Corps have retreated south across the Sambre. Part of the Belgian army has withdrawn to Antwerp. It is reported that an English army has disembarked at Calais and Boulogne en route for Brussels.'"

Sept. 23, Fine Day, Saw No Major Operations.

The Official Press Bureau today gave out a statement which says:

"The following descriptive account, which has been communicated by an eyewitness, at present with the general headquarters, continues and supplements the narrative published yesterday of the movements of the British forces and of the French armies in immediate touch with it.

"Wednesday, Sept. 23 was a perfect autumn day. It passed without incident as regards major operations. Although the enemy concentrated their heavy artillery upon the plateau near Passy, nothing more than inconvenience was caused.

"The welcome absence of wind gave our airmen a chance of which they took full advantage by gathering much information. Unfortunately one of our aviators, who had been particularly active in annoying the enemy by dropping bombs, was wounded in a duel in the air. Being alone on a single-seated monoplane, he was not able to use his rifle, and while circling above a German two-seated machine in an endeavor to get within pistol shot he was hit by the observer of the German machine, who was armed with a rifle. He managed to fly back over our lines, and by great good luck he descended close to a motor ambulance which at once conveyed him to a hospital.

"Against this may be set off the fact that another of our fliers exploded a bomb among some artillery horses, killing several and stampeding the others.

"On Thursday, Sept. 24, the fine weather continued, as did the lull in the action, the heavy German shells falling mostly near Pargnan (12 miles south-southeast, of Laon).

"On both Wednesday and Thursday the weather was so fine that many flights were made by the aviators—French, British and German. These produced a corresponding activity among the anti-aircraft guns. So still and clear was the atmosphere towards evening on Wednesday and during the whole of Thursday that to those not especially on the lookout the presence of aeroplanes high up above them was first made known by the bursting of the projectiles aimed at them. The puffs of smoke from the detonation shell hung in the air for minutes like bells of fleecy cotton wool before they slowly expanded and were dissipated.

Battle More and More Resembles Siege Warfare.

"From the places mentioned as being the chief targets for the enemy's heavy howitzers, it will be seen that the Germans are now inclined to concentrate their fire systematically on definite areas in which their aviators think they have located our guns of upon villages where it is imagined our troops may be billeted. The result will be to give work to local builders.

"The growing resemblance of this battle to siege warfare already has been pointed out. The fact that the later actions of the Russo-Japanese war assumed a similar character was thought by many to have been due to exceptional causes, such as the narrowness of the theater of operations between the Chinese frontier on the west and the mountainous country of Notrhern Korea on the east; the lack of roads which limited the extent of ground over which it was possible for the rival armies to maneuver, and the fact that both forces were tied to one line of railroad. Such factors are not exerting any influence on the present battle. Nevertheless, a similar situation had been produced, owing, first, to the immense power of resistance possessed by an army which is amply equipped with heavy artillery and has sufficient time to fortify itself, and, second, to the vast size of the forces engaged, which stretch more than half way across France.

"The extent of the country covered is so great as to render slow any efforts to maneuver and march around to a flank in order to escape the costly expedient of a frontal attack against fortified positions.

"To state that the methods of attack must approximate more closely to those of siege warfare the greater resemblance of the defenses to thoes of a fortress is a platitude but is one which will bear repetition if it in any way assists to make the situaiton clear.

"There is no doubt that the position on the Aisne was not hastily selected by the German staff after the retreat had begun. From the choice of ground and the care with which the fields of fire had been arranged to cover all possible avenues of approach and from the amount of work already carried out, it is clear that the contingency of having to act on the defensive was not overlooked when the details of the strategically offensive campaign were arranged."

Kaiser With His Staff, Greeting Gen. Pau, Now French Right's Commander, at Recent Maneuvers

THIS remarkably interesting photograph was made some time before the war. Gen. Paul Pau, the famous one-armed commander of the French army now operating against the Germans in Alsace and Lorraine, was an invited guest at the staff headquarters of the German army, which was playing at war. Immediately back of the Kaiser stands Count von Moltke, the Kaiser's Chief of Staff. Gen. Pau lost his right arm while fighting the Germans in 1870.

U9 WAS IN ACTION ONE HOUR AGAINST BRITISH CRUISERS

German Report Says Submarine Was Chased by Enemy Until Nightfall.

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 29, via wireless to Sayville, L. I.—The German report on the sinking in the North Sea of the British cruisers Aboukir, Cressy and Hogue by the German submarine U9 declares that the entire engagement lasted one hour. The British cruisers did not fire a single shot. Contrary to English reports, the U9 was alone in this engagement. The British destroyers chased the U9 until darkness fell, but were not successful in catching her.

News has been given out that the German cruiser Emden, after sinking five British merchant steamers in the Gulf of Bengal, destroyed naval oil tank steamers at Madras.

"Polish Promise Revoked."

Other information made public in Berlin declares that the Commander in Chief of the Russian forces (Grand Duke Nicholas) has revoked the Government's promise of autonomy for Poland, giving as his reason the fact that the Polish riflemen fought on the Austrian side in the battle of Lemberg.

It is explained by the Commander in Chief that a Polish constitution was to be granted only under the condition that all Poles were loyal. It is declared here in this same connection that Emperor Nicholas' manifesto to the Poles was worthless because it was given out without his signature.

Another story given out in Berlin is as follows:

During a sortie from Antwerp, Belgian troops occupied the village of Linden, near Louvain, and took possession also of a chateau belonging to the Dutch family of Van Blankenhagen, the members of which had at their own expense transformed their residence into a hospital.

Belgians Burn a Chateau.

Forty wounded Belgians were being constantly nursed at the chateau, over which flew the Red Cross and the Dutch flags, by members of the Van Blankenhagen family. In spite of these facts the Belgians set fire to the village of Linden and burned down the chateau. This act was the result of their hatred of the Dutch, whom they wrongly accused of having permitted German troops to cross Southern Luxemburg.

Other stories made public in Berlin relate that the French bombardment of Cattaro, in Dalmatia, has been absolutely without success.

Russians are described as having stolen the famous private library of works on art from the castle of Prince Ossilinsky, in Lemberg. It is said that they carried their booty to Petrograd.

Additional Funds Pledged.

At a largely attended meeting in Berlin of men prominent in industry, commerce and agriculture, a resolution was adopted setting forth that the recent German war loan had been highly successful and those present recorded their readiness to make any further sacrifices needed. They demanded also that the war be continued until such time as German successes were commensurate with the gigantic sacrifices entailed in securing a lasting peace for the future.

By order of the military commander of the province of Brandenburg, the Vorwaerts, organ of the Social Democratic party, has suspended publication indefinitely.

Emperor William on Saturday visited Prince Oscar, one of his sons, who is ill with heart trouble at Metz. The Duchess of Brunswick, sister of the Prince, arrived the same day and will remain with her brother until he returns to the front.

FEAR OF GERMAN PROGRESS CAUSED BRITAIN TO FIGHT, SAYS HISTORIAN FERRERO

Italian Believes Resentment at Violation of Belgium's Neutrality Was Only Pretext—Fight for Primacy in Coal and Iron.

(Copyright, 1914, by Press Pub. Co.)

IN this gigantic war the combatants are actuated by different motives and for different interests. Each is acting with different means of offense and defense; each, in a word, occupied a position peculiar to itself.

In the midst of the confusion of events which will soon overwhelm us from every side it will be impossible to keep one's bearings unless he knows the position of each belligerent Power.

So, as we go on observing as occasion may offer, we shall discern these interests, motives and methods of offense and defense. Today we shall examine this point:

For what reason has England taken the field on the side of France?

In the speech he delivered in the House of Commons on Aug. 3 Sir Edward Grey clearly defined England's position among the belligerents. She was then still free from any obligation. The French and English General Staff had for some time been working out the plans of the eventual military operations that the two governments might have to carry out if they should some day find themselves fighting side by side.

Why Did England Declare War?

Everything was ready for an offensive and defensive alliance, but the two Governments had not yet assumed reciprocal obligations of any kind. On the evening of Aug. 3 England could still declare herself neutral, and it would seem that Germany was still that very day trying to persuade her not to take arms. For what reason did England declare war on Germany on the day following?

The apparent reason was Belgium. On that very day the Chancellor of the German empire announced in the Reichstag that Germany would violate the neutrality of Belgium, because he who is fighting cannot heed international law; and the next day England sent to Germany the ultimatum: Respect Belgium or go to war.

But Belgium was the pretext for the war rather than the reason—the magnificent pretext offered by Germany to the parties in England that had for long been wanting war. England also had guaranteed the neutrality of Belgium. By violating it Germany was offending England whose honor was now pledged to unsheath the sword. In England friends of peace and partisans of war have been—and cannot fail to be—in agreement in recognizing that war was inevitable as soon as the German armies had crossed the Belgian frontier.

But it is to be believed that even if Germany had not imprudently furnished England with that splendid pretext, England would have sought and found another.

For a long time the Conservative party and a considerable section of the Liberal party of England have been agreed that if Germany should attack France, England must take the field with Russia in her defense, in order to prevent Germany from further aggrandizement upon the Continent, and from becoming the arbiter of Europe.

This is the real reason why England today stands side by side with France against Germany, just as a century ago she was directing the struggle against Napoleon.

Germany Might Become Menace.

It is a most potent reason; for Germany has now reached a point in her history and development at which she might by further expansion become more dangerous to England than the Napoleonic empire was a century ago.

Whosoever needs to be convinced of it has only to study the statistics of the production of iron, and there he will find the key to the anglo-German conflict.

England is the richer, but Germany has far the greater population. With some increase of territory upon the continent, and with its natural rapid growth, this population might very soon be double that of England. So for England this war is a matter of life or death.

In a certain sense I should almost be tempted to say that the struggle between England and Germany is fiercer than that between Germany and France. Germany and France are enemies for historical and moral reasons.

In the last 10 years Germany has become, after the United States, the second metal-working nation in the world. In 1912 the United States manufactured about 30,000,000 tons of iron, Germany about 17,000,000, England 10,000,000. These figures explain everything, when we consider that iron is today the most important agency in world-conquest.

What can a people that produces so much iron do with it? What must it do with it? It is naturally impelled to manufacture machinery, railroads, merchant vessels, ironclads, dreadnaughts. The development of the German merchant marine and the creation of the German war fleet, which have given such umbrage to England, were the natural effect of the rapid growth of German metallurgy.

But a people who can construct so much machinery, so many railroads, so many cannon, so many ships of peace and war, and that has not, like the United States, an immense continent to populate with its railways; a people that lives crowded and crowded upon a small territory, will it not some day be tempted to make use of these arms and these materials in making room for itself in the world, and in widening an empire to populate?

Feared German Advancement.

Indeed, England has perceived for some time that Germany, with her rich coal mines, her powerful metallurgies, her military traditions, her population that has now reached 65,000,000, might before long attempt to destroy the British Empire, and conquer at least part of it for herself, if she should succeed in spreading out in Europe and in throwing down and weakening the Continental rivals—France and Russia—who have hampered her movements.

France represents, as it were, the qualitative principle, Germany the quantitative principle in modern civilization; so, taking account merely of interests, they might live prosperously side by side without suspecting each other or annoying each other too much. But Germany and England could not; every excessive aggrandisement of the one is a menace and a peril to the other.

Thus, the war between England and Germany is absolutely different than that between France and Germany. One might almost call it a war of coal and iron, a mercantile conflict recalling the ancient struggles between Carthage and Syracuse, Genoa and Venice, but in colossal proportions and new forms.

An immense revolution has taken place within a century in Europe and in America. We have entered the great age of life, in which coal and iron are the most important instruments of power and wealth. And for the old world, England and Germany are fighting between themselves for the primacy in coal and iron.

American Arrested as Spy Saved by West Point Ring

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—A West Point class ring worn by Capt. Frank P. Avery of Washington, a retired United States Army officer, who arrived here on the American line steamship Dominion, saved him from imprisonment as a British spy while in Munich.

According to Capt. Avery, soldiers arrested him on the street and took him to military headquarters. An inspector of the German army happened along. Through an interpreter Capt. Avery renewed his protests, which did not receive much attention until the inspector noticed the American officer's West Point ring. The German's manner changed instantly. Capt. Avery quickly established his identity. The German officer said he had visited the United States and had visited the military academy. He was treated so courteously there, he said, that he was only too glad to reciprocate to an American officer. The inspector then pinned a badge on Capt. Avery's coat which enabled him to go wherever he desired in Munich.

American "Sawed Off" Gun for British Sentries Urged

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—A correspondent writes the London Field suggesting that British sentries "against German spies within the United Kingdom" be armed with the American "sawed off" shotgun, charged with buckshot.

He urges that such a weapon would be more efficient for sentries at railway bridges and other places where guards are maintained than the service rifle, especially at night.

GERMANY LONG PLANNED TO MAKE WAR THIS YEAR, A. CONAN DOYLE CHARGES

Says Assassinations in Bosnia Had No Real Part in Bringing Crisis, as Another Pretext Would Have Been Found.

By Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

Printed Exclusively in St. Louis by the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1914, by Press Pub. Co.)

LONDON, Sept. 25.

IT will be a fascinating task for the historian of the immediate future to work out the various strands of evidence which seems to be independent, and yet, when followed up, converge upon the central purpose of a prearranged war for the late summer of 1914, a war in which Germany should be the prime mover and instigator, and Austria the dupe and the cat's paw.

Of course, there are some great facts patent to all the world. There is the sudden and rapid acceleration of German preparations for the last two years, the great increase of the army with the colors, and the special emergency tax which was to bring in $50,000,000. Looking back, we can see very clearly that these things were the run before the jump.

Germany, at the moment of declaring war, had accumulated, by processes extending over years, all the money which by borrowing and taxation she could raise, and she cannot really expect the rest of the world to believe it a mere coincidence that the crisis came along at that particular and favorable moment.

Assassination Not Cause.

All the evidence tends to show that the long-planned outbreak—the "letting go," as it was called in Germany—was carefully prepared for that particular date, and that the Bosnian assassinations (June 28) had nothing whatever to do with the matter. A pretext could be very easily found, as Gen. von Bernhardi remarks, and if the Crown Prince of Austria were still alive and well, we should none the less have found ourselves at death-grips with the Kaiser over the Belgian infraction.

There are a number of small indications which will have to be investigated and collected by the inquiring chronicler. There is, for example, the reception of guns for the merchant cruiser in a South American port, which must have been sent off not later than July 10, three weeks before the crisis developed. There is a document of this same date, found upon a German officer, which is said to have censured him for not having answered some mobilization form of Monday.

Then there is the abnormal quantity of grain ordered in Canada and America in May, and finally there is the receipt of mobilization warnings by the Austrian reservists in South America, advising them that they should return at a date which must place their issue from Vienna in the first week in July.

Surprise Intended.

All these small incidents show the absurdity of the German contention that at a moment of profound peace, some sort of surprise was sprung on them. There was, indeed, a surprise intended, but they were the surprisers, though indeed, I think, their machinations were too clumsy to succeed.

They had retained the immortality of, but had lost the ability for, that sudden tiger pounce which Frederick, in a moment of profound peace, made upon Silesia. I fancy that every chancellery in Europe suspected that something was in the wind.

It surely was not a mere coincidence that the grand fleet lay ready for action at Spithead, and that the first army corps were practicing some very useful exercises at Aldershot. After all, our administration is not so simple, indeed, as it sometimes seems. Indeed, that very simplicity may be at times its most deadly mask.

At one time in my life I was much bruised in spirit over the ease with which foreigners were shown over our arsenals and yards. Happening to meet the head of the naval intelligence department, I confined my trouble to him. It was at a public banquet, where conversation was restricted. But he turned his head toward me, and his left eyelid flickered for an instant. Since then I have never needed any reassurances upon the subject.

But there is another matter which will insist coming back into one's thoughts, when one reviews the events which preceded the war. I was in Canada in June, and the country was very much disturbed by the fact that a shipload of Hindoos had arrived at Vancouver and had endeavored to land in the face of anti-Asiatic immigration laws.

It struck me at the time as a most extraordinary incident, for these Indians were not the usual Bengalee peddler, but Sikhs of the brown martial race. What could be their object in endeavoring to land in Canada, when the climate of that country would make it impossible for them to settle in it? It was a most unnatural incident, yet a most painful one, for the British Government was placed in a terrible dilemma of either supporting Canada against India or India against Canada.

Could anything be better calculated to start an agitation in one country or in another? Things were explained at the time, but now one would wish to know who paid for the ship and engineered the whole undertaking. I believe it was one more move on Germany's world-wide board.

Recalls Motor Tour.

In connection with the date at which the long-expected German war was to break out, it is of interest now to remember some of the conversations to which I listened three years ago, when I was a competitor in an Anglo-German motor competition called "The Prince Henry Tour."

It was a very singular experience, and was in itself not without some political meaning, since it could hardly be by chance that a German gunboat should appear at Agadir at the very instant when the head of the German navy was making himself very agreeable to a number of Britons, and so genial an international atmosphere was created that 70 or 80 cars were sent on a trip of hospitality through both countries.

I refuse to believe it was chance, and it was a remarkable example of the details to which the Germans can descend. By the rules of the competition, a German officer had to be present in each British car, and a British officer in each German one, during the whole three weeks, in order to check the marks of the driver.

It was certainly an interesting situation, since every car had its foreign body within it, which had to be assimilated somehow, with the alternative of constant discomfort.

Personally we were fortunate in having a Rittmeister (cavalry captain) of the Breslau cuirassiers, with whom we were able to form quite a friendship. Good luck to you, Count Carmer, and bad luck to your regiment! Also, little Capt. Turck Fregatten, the best of luck, and ill betide your cruiser! We found pleasant friends among the Germans, although all were not equally fortunate, and I do not think the net result helped much toward an international entente.

However, the point of my reminiscence is that on this tour I, being at that time a champion of Anglo-German friendship, heard continual discussions, chiefly on the side of the British officers, several of whom were experts on German matters, as to when the impending war would be forced upon us. The date given was always 1914 or 1915. When I asked why this particular year, the answer was that the German preparations would be ready by then, especially the widening of the Kiel Canal, by which the newer and larger battleships would be able to pass from the Baltic to the North Sea.

It says something for the foresight of these officers that the widening was actually finished June 24, this year, and that within six weeks the whole of Europe was at war. I am bound to admit that they saw deeper into the future than I did, and formed a truer estimate of our relations with our fellow voyagers.

"Surely you feel more friendly to them now," said I then, and to one distinguished officer.

"All I want with them now is to fight them," said he.

We all have been forced to come around to this point of view.

Yes, it was a deep, deep plot against the liberties of Europe, extending over several years, planned out to the smallest detail in the days of peace, developed by hordes of spies, prepared for by every conceivable military, naval and financial precaution, and finally, sprung on us on a pretext no more the real cause of the war than any other excuse would have been which would served by having some superficial plausibility.

The real cause of the war was universal national insanity, infecting the whole German race, but derived originally from the Prussian caste, who inoculated others with their megalomania. This insanity was based upon a universal supposition that the Germans were lords and chosen people and that, in the words of Buy, they were "the most cultured people, the best sailors and best warriors."

Why Not at Once.

The best of everything—having got that idea thoroughly infused into the very blood—the next step was clear. If they were infinitely the best people living amidst such tribes as "the barbarous Russians," the "fickle French" and "the beastly Servians and Belgians" (to quote one of their recent papers), then why should they have all the best things in the world? They need not do it all at once. But two great national efforts would give them the whole of unredeemed Germany, both shores of the Rhine down to the sea, the German canton of Switzerland, and in conjunction with Austria, the long road which leads to Salonica. All local causes and smaller details sink into nothing when compared with this huge national ambition—the real driving force back of this formidable project. And it was a very formidable project. And if such things could be settled by mere figures and time tables, without any reference to the spirit and the soul of the nations, it might well have succeeded.

I think we are not indulging too far in national complacency if we say that without the British army, that "negligible factor," it would for a time, at least, have succeeded. Had the Germans accomplished their purpose of getting around the left wing of the French, it is difficult to see how a debacle could have been avoided, and it is our little army which stood in the pass and held it until that danger was past.

It is certain now that the huge sweep of the German right never could have been allowed. The French troops in that quarter were second line troops, and it was our great honor and good fortune to have dammed that raging torrent and so to have stopped the rush which must have swept everything before it until it went raging into Paris.

And yet how many things might have prevented our presence at the right place at the right time, and how near we were to a glorious annihilation upon that dreadful day, when the artillery of five German army corps and 830 guns in all were concentrated upon Smith Dorriens' exhausted men.

The success or failure of the great conspiracy hung upon the overmatched British covering batteries upon that critical afternoon. It was the turning point of the history of the world.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, you will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter that one's system collects.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women, as well as men, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets now and then just to keep in the pink of condition.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel—10c and 35c per box. All druggists.

Would You Gain a Pound A Week for Three Months?

Then begin taking regularly three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets, which are made from a health-germ of ordinary yeast and combined with hypophosphites and an absorptive phosphorus.

Physicians and chemists assert that this tablet is very largely used for increasing the weight and improving the nervous system because of its aid to digestion, assimilation and absorption. The food elements which go to make blood and solid tissue is retained when this treatment is regularly used for several months. Most physicians and apothecary shops supply them in sealed packages.—ADVERTISEMENT.

VILLA DEMANDS THAT CARRANZA QUIT ON OCT. 1

He Sets Time for Resignation in Answer to First Chief's Proposal to Stay Out of Presidential Race if Revolting General Will Agree Not to Run.

CIVILIAN RULE IS NEEDED, SAYS VILLA

His Plan Is to Eliminate Military Men From Politics and Avert Continuance of Armed Strife — Backs Stand With Troops.

Special From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico, Sept. 29.—In answer to Gen. Carranza's proposal not to become a candidate for the presidency if Villa would adopt the same course, Gen. Villa today specified Oct. 1 as the date on which Carranza must announce his withdrawal from politics.

"Let Gen. Carranza evidence his good faith by deeds as well as words and he shall have my pledge," said Gen. Villa to newspaper men. "I will, moreover, pledge that none of the Generals under my command shall try to assume administrative control—neither Gen. Angeles nor anyone else.

"I will pledge further to tranquillize Northern Mexico or any section of the republic to which I may be sent by the national administration.

"Mexico needs now, as never before, a firm and powerful guidance from a civilian administration directing the military divisions. Only by eliminating the military from national politics can armed strife among jealous military leaders be averted, but military aid in cleaning the country of outlawry is essential."

To emphasize the seriousness of his demands, Gen. Villa today started a column of troops from Zacatecas south along the railroad toward Aguas Calientes to make a showing in front of the Constitutionalist garrison there before the main Villa army arrives to offer an attack.

A Carranza commission, headed by Gen. Alvaro Obregon, was reported to be at Aguas Calientes today, bearing in writing Carranza's offer to resign as First Chief of the Constitutionalists and eliminate himself as a presidential candidate. Villa's reply will be handed to this commission by Gen. Maximo Garcia, who leads Villa's expeditionary force south from Zacatecas.

Gen. Villa has made in plan that, unless Gen. Carranza resigns when the conference of the Constitutionalist Generals meets, Oct. 1, immediate attack on Aguas Calientes will follow and the most direct road to Mexico City will be taken by his army.

Troop Trains Moving.

Little is said here regarding Zapata, the revolutionary chieftain, although his aid is partially counted upon in operations around the capital. Villa's officers say the Zapata brothers are considered so hostile to every other organization that entire reliance cannot be placed in them. The report that Gen. Villa is sending troops into Sonora by Guzman, Chihuahua, to aid the forces of Gen. Maytorena, was officially denied. Villa considers that Maytorena has more than enough troops to hold the State.

Troop trains have been steadily moved south toward Zacatecas, capital of the State of that name, of which Villa took possession yesterday. Normal train service has been declared restored between the two cities, but the schedule has been set aside while cavalry and artillery are being moved south in preparation for an attack on Aguas Calientas.

Appeal of Symphony Official For Money to Continue Work

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THE St. Louis Symphony Orchestra is in financial distress. It will have to be abandoned unless the necessary money is raised to carry it through this year. The sum of $12,000 to $15,000 is needed.

The accumulated work of 36 years will have to be abandoned and St. Louis' development along orchestral lines will cease. An investment of over a million dollars since the orchestra's inception will be lost unless this money is raised before Oct. 5.

Is it not possible for your paper to enlist the aid of the thousands of people that comprise the audiences of the Sunday popular concerts and the high-school concerts and ask them, through your paper, if they won't come to the orchestra's assistance, now that it is in distress?

Subscriptions should be sent to the office of the society, 1323 Central National Bank Building.

ST. LOUIS SYMPHONY SOCIETY,
Oliver F. Richards, Chairman Executive Committee.

CARRANZA SENDS REPLY TO VILLA

Semi-Officially Announced That Both Will Agree Not to Run for Presidency.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 29.—Gen. Carranza yesterday answered a message sent by Gen. Villa's division of the army, which, while protesting loyalty, asked the first chief of the Constitutionalists to resign in favor of Fernando Yglesias Calderon. While the text of Carranza's answer has not been made public, Government officials are optimistic regarding the results which it may have.

It is semi-officially stated that the general conference is to be postponed from Oct. 1 to Oct. 5, when all difference existing between Villa and Carranza will be adjusted through an understanding that no Northern chief shall be a candidate for either temporary or permanent President.

The Pacification Committee, organized among officials here in an endeavor to adjust differences between Carranza and Villa, departed yesterday with the immediate object of reaching the nearest point where the members can consult the Generals of the division of the North.

The commission is composed of Gen Obregon, formerly a close friend of Villa, but whose detention by the Northern leader caused the present difficulty; Ramon F. Iturbe, Col. Luis Santoyo, Jesus Trujillo, Guillermo Garcia Aragon, Ramon V. Sos, Eduard Hay, Andres Sausedo and Col. Ernesto Santos Coy.

Villa's Announcement Is Received by State Department.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Formal announcement from Gen. Villa that he will not be a candidate for President or Vice-President of Mexico was received at the State Department yesterday through Consular Agent Carrothers, at Chihuahua City. This dispatch, the first to reach Washington from the interior of Mexico since Villa's revolt against Gen. Carranza's authority as first chief of the Constitutionalists, greatly strengthened the hopes of officials here for a peaceful adjustment of the difficulties between the two leaders.

Special significance was attached to Villa's assurance because it follows so closely the declaration of Gen. Carranza that he would not become a candidate if Villa would give a similar promise and all the military leaders were eliminated as presidential possibilities. It is generally believed in official circles that if Gen. Carranza resigns Thursday, as has been declared he will, the convention called by him for that date will name as his successor Fernando Yglesias Calderon, whose selection has been demanded by Villa.

Gen. Funston, commanding the American forces at Vera Cruz, informed the War Department that Gen. Zapata, the Southern rebel leader, had lodged a protest with him against the surrender of Vera Cruz to the Carranza Government. Zapata made it plain that he did not recognize Carranza as the first chief of the Constitutionalists.

Buy a Bale of Cotton.

The farmers of the cotton section in Oklahoma need help. The war has prevented a market for this staple and the grower is in distress. Cotton at 10 cents per pound is as good as money in the bank. The farmer needs the money. If everybody who can afford it will buy a bale the situation will be relieved and the purchaser will have done a charitable act. T. F. Danenhour or the Atoka Press will buy for those who are willing to help. There will be no charge for the services and the warehouse receipt will be forwarded to purchaser.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Count V. Macchi di Cellers, new Italian Ambassador to the United States, was here today to take up the duties of the post, and called at the State Department.

SYMPHONY SOCIETY MUST GET $12,000 OR DISBAND A YEAR

Unless a prospective deficit of from $12,000 to $15,000 is subscribed by next Tuesday, the Executive Committee of the St. Louis Symphony Society, the second oldest symphony orchestra in the United States, may be forced to suspend the program already arranged to begin Nov. 6, according to Oliver F. Richards, the chairman.

A guarantee fund of $30,000, established six years ago by subscription to provide for an annual deficit of about $30,000, has shrunk, through deaths, removals and the expiration of pledges, until today there is but $17,000 pledged and not all of that may be collected, Richards says.

An audit of accounts by Price, Waterhouse & Co., certified accountants, shows the season which closed last March resulted in a deficit of $29,254.30, which had to be made up with the guarantee fund and additional subscriptions by members of the society.

Expenditures last season totaled $81,418.47, and receipts, exclusive of guarantee fund subscriptions, were $51,964.17. The salaries of Conductor Max Zach and the members of the orchestra amounted to $55,918. Soloists cost $6724, rent of the Odeon $6735, advertising $3430, and management and office expenses, $3676.

Receipts from 15 concerts Thursday afternoons, and 15 concerts Saturday nights, were $36,031.15. Popular concerts, given 20 times on Sunday afternoons, netted $14,940.75, and the net income from extra concerts and tours was $962.27.

The Symphony Society has conducted its orchestra for 36 years by the aid of subscriptions to cover the deficits that accumulate. Active members of the society who are not extremely wealthy have been compelled for several years to make up a large part of the $30,000 guarantee fund that was instituted in 1906.

At a meeting of the executive committee this morning in the Central National Bank Building, members told a Post-Dispatch reporter they had been forced to the decision that the program, both of regular and popular concerts, must be abandoned this year unless ample funds are assured by the raising of about $15,000 more for the guarantee fund before Oct. 5. Obligations of $4000 already have been incurred, Richards said, and by Oct. 5, the society must enter into its contracts for salaries, hall rent and all other expenses, or decide to remain inactive for a year. James E. Smith, Hanford Crawford and Richards attended the meeting.

"It is with great regret that we are forced to this conclusion," said Richards, "as we feel it would be a calamity for St. Louis to lose the orchestra, even for a season. Other cities, notably Chicago and Boston, are accomplishing wonderful things through similar orchestras patterned after the St. Louis organization and the Philharmonic Society Orchestra of New York, the oldest in the country. We feel, however, we cannot afford to pledge the society to expenditures substantially greater that the amount we may hope to realize by ticket sales and subscriptions to the guarantee fund."

Richards displayed a certified financial statement of the season of 1912-13, which shows concert receipts of $47,578.61, and expenditures of $83,067.61, leaving a deficit for the season of $35,389. The concert receipts increased more than $4000 last year and a further increase is expected this year if the season is not abandoned, Richards said.

The Best Laxative to Use for Children

When your baby is cross and fretful instead of the happy, laughing little dear you are accustomed to, in all probability the digestion has become deranged and the bowels need attention. Give it a mild laxative, dispel the irritability and bring back the happy content of babyhood.

The very best laxative for children is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, because it contains no opiate or narcotic drug, is pleasant tasting and acts gently, but surely, without griping or other distress. Druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 451 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

CAPT. M'CULLOCH'S BODY IN STATE FOR CAR MEN TO VIEW

United Railway Employes Are Admitted to Home Three Hours Today.

The body of Capt. Robert McCulloch, president of the United Railways, who died yesterday morning, lay from 12 to 3 p. m. today in the parlor of the McCulloch home at 4469 Westminster place, where it was viewed by all United Railways employes that the company officials could arrange to be absent from their duties.

This morning Robert P. Bringhurst, an artist, made a death mask of Capt. McCulloch.

The funeral will be conducted at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence. It will be in charge of the Masonic order. Representatives from Tuscan Lodge, Bellefontaine Chapter, and of the Knights Templar will attend.

To Sing Favorite Hymn.

The Rev. John F. Cannon, pastor of the Grand Avenue Presbyterian Church, will offer a prayer. The only music will be the singing by a quartet of "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," which is a favorite of Mrs. McCulloch and will be sung at her request.

At the grave in Bellefontaine Cemetery, where Capt. McCulloch's body will rest beside those of two of his sons, the United Confederate Veterans will have charge of the services. The Rev. Dr. C. C. Woods, chaplain of Camp No. 731, U. C. V., will offer a prayer.

The veterans will sing "Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground." Capt. McCulloch participated in the singing of the old camp song recently at the laying of the cornerstone of a Confederate monument in Forest Park, and when he returned home remarked to Mrs. McCulloch that he thought the old song very beautiful and particularly appropriate when Confederate veterans were together.

To Stop Street Cars.

For five minutes after 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the hour of the funeral, all street cars in St. Louis will be stopped as a tribute of respect to Capt. McCulloch.

Officials of the company after his death told that Capt. McCulloch recently had been giving much attention to a plan by which employes of the company would be able to save money and purchase their own homes.

A number of employes had planned the organization of a building and loan association, the stockholders of which should be employes of the United Railways. They had difficulty in arriving at a plan by which the company could be interested and went to Richard McCulloch, vice-president and general manager, and son of Capt. McCulloch. He took the plan to his father, who had considered it for several days.

Capt. McCulloch finally decided the company would guarantee the obligations of the building and loan association, and that any employe could purchase stock in the association, which he would pay for in small amounts each month, and on which he could borrow money to build a home.

Officials of the company said that the plan probably would be carried out by Capt. McCulloch's successor.

John T. Appler, commander of Camp St. Louis, 731, United Confederate Veterans, has issued a call for all members to be at the McCulloch home at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow to attend the funeral. He also has detailed Capt. Frank Galennie, Capt. L. S. Flateau, Edward J. Stiles, Harry J. Simmons, Gen. A. W. Moise and J. T. Grimes as a guard of honor for tonight. They are expected to report at the McCulloch residence at 9 p. m.

Capt. McCulloch's offices were closed after his death just as he left them when he departed from work Saturday, except that the windows were draped in black, as was also the entrance to the corridor leading to the offices. Flags on the United Railways office building were set at half-mast.

The active pallbearers are eight division superintendents of the company: John L. Miers, J. H. Turner, Patrick Concannon, James Leslie, Charles Dring, J. H. Woollam, Harry Butler and G. F. Trotter. There will be 40 honorary pallbearers.

Expert Publicity Men Give Merchants Advertising Advice.

At the "Ad" Men's weekly Tuesday luncheon, the subject discussed under the "Problem Meeting" caption was "Envelope Enclosure." By special invitation there were many prominent merchants present. The speakers were John Ring Jr., Mercantile Trust Co.; Coleman R. Gray, Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Co.; L. Will Shelly, Shelly Printing Co., and D. C. Sewir, Fisher-Steinbrugge Advertising Co., all expert publicity men.

All of the speakers gave practical illustrations of benefit to the merchants who advertise in the daily newspapers, in magazines and through the mails—showing them how to make the business started in one department progress to all the others that they control.

KILLS DAUGHTER AND SELF

KANKAKEE, Ill., Sept. 29.—The body of John Rapple, a wealthy farmer, was found yesterday hanging from a rafter in the barn on his farm near Bonfield. His 20-year-old daughter, Hazel, was found dead in the house, with a bullet in her head and a revolver by her side. The Coroner's jury returned a late verdict that Rapple had killed his daughter and then committed suicide while temporarily insane.

Mrs. Rapple died suddenly a year ago.

WHITMAN AND GLYNN NEW YORK PRIMARY VICTORS

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Gov. Glynn defeated John A. Hennessy for the Democratic nomination for Governor in the primary yesterday. On the incomplete returns now in, he leads up-state and will not fall far short of winning in this city by 75,000, the estimate of Tammany Hall.

District Attorney Whitman had a runaway race against Harvey D. Hinman and Job Hedges for the Republican gubernatorial honors, showing surprising strength both up and down State.

James W. Gerard, who is Ambassador to Germany, proved an easy victor over Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and James S. McDonough in the race for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Race of the Progressives.

Whether James W. Wadsworth Jr. or William M. Calder is the Republican nominee for the United States Senate and whether former Gov. William Sulzer or Frederick M. Davenport is the Progressive gubernatorial nominee probably will not be known until all the up-state vote is compiled.

Returns which have come in show Wadsworth leading Calder by 25,050 in 1371 districts outside of New York City. At noon Davenport was leading Sulzer by 1169.

Bainbridge Colby is the Progressive candidate for Senator. He was unopposed, as were all the candidates on that ticket except Davenport and Sulzer.

Progressive Vote Light.

Practically all of the present incumbents in Congress who sought renomination appear to have been successful.

Tammany candidates for the Assembly in New York City appear to have won. These include Alfred E. Smith, Tammany leader in the Assembly.

REED'S FIGHT ON CLAYTON BILL HAS FILIBUSTER ASPECT

Calls for Quorums and Searches for Senate Absentees Follow in Succession.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The fight of Senator Reed of Missouri on the Clayton anti-trust bill conference agreement took on the aspects of a filibuster today when he resumed the attack. The Missouri Senator is being assisted by Senators Nelson, Borah and Kenyon for the Republican side.

Reed today read into the Congressional Record the St. Louis Post-Dispatch analysis of the Clayton bill, printed on Sept. 10, and the comment on the weak points in the measure.

Reed, in a speech yesterday, charged his Democratic colleagues with handling the trusts with soft-gloved hands, and with proposing that instead of trust exterminations "no rude Sheriff or Marshal is to lay callous fingers upon the perfumed collar of captains of industry."

Says Conferees Capitulated.

He declared that the bill as agreed to in conference should be called "the conferees' capitulation;" that in removing criminal penalties for various offenses the conferees had treated with monopoly as under a white flag and to soothing melodies of "peace on earth; good will to the trusts."

"When the Clayton bill was first written," he added, "it was a raging lion with a mouthful of teeth. It has degenerated to a tabby cat with soft gums, a plaintive mew and an anemic appearance. It is a sort of legislative apology to the trust, delivered hat in hand, and accompanied by assurances that no discourtesy is intended."

"The President," he continued, "asked for laws applicable to trusts and corporations and to the practices of trusts and corporations. He asked relief for oppressed and outraged business and now come the conferees with soft gloved hands and tender delicate words proposing to cut the injured business man off from the right to use decisions heretofore rendered against wrongful corporations and practically cutting him off from the use of decisions in cases now pending in the courts.

"The members of this Congress compared with that which passed the Sherman law are a lot of wet nurses as against soldiers on the field of battle, swords in hand. John Sherman and other Republicans of that day, were fearless in their stand against the trusts. Their little fingers were stronger than our lions."

The conference agreement, the Senator asserted, would be welcomed by men who organized the Standard Oil Co., the Tobacco Trust, the Sugar Trust, or "the men who looted the New Haven Railroad, and they would stand around it like scores of witches singing around the cauldron 'bubble, bubble, boil and bubble—this ill will cause us no troule.'"

96 PER CENT OF VEHICLES IN FOREST PARK AUTOS

Count Made on Sunday by Commissioner Davis Shows Few Horses.

Only 3.2 per cent of the vehicles using the drives in Forest Park Sunday are drawn by horses, according to an announcement made yesterday by Park Commissioner Davis of a count made by members of his construction staff.

The tabulation was made Sunday, Sept. 17, between 1 and 6 p. m. Men stationed at the entrances counted all the vehicles entering the park. The total was 5873, of which 36.8 per cent were rubber-tired vehicles. Of these latter 87.6 per cent were automobiles.

The commissioner, in his planning for the roadways, will be guided by the result of the count and give most attention to the needs of the rubber-tired vehicles.

Commissioner Davis was surprised to find that 30.6 per cent of the traffic entered the park from the south. As a result greater attention will be paid to the entrances and roadways in that end of the park. The vehicles passing through the five northern entrances were 69.4 per cent. At the King's highway and Lindell boulevard entrance an automobile passed, on an average, every seven and one-half seconds during the afternoon.

GAVE CHAMPAGNE AS PREMIUM WITH WHISKY; A FIZZLE

Kellerstrass Distilling Co. Lost Money, Receivership Suit Shows.

St. Louis bankers, insurance men, furniture dealers, tea and coffee merchants and grocers who saw visions of easy wealth, to be gained through the mail order whisky business, have come to the conclusion that there is no profit in giving away two bottles of champagne with every gallon of whisky, even though the cost of the champagne is only 15 cents a bottle.

For this reason, no opposition will be made to the suit filed yesterday afternoon by Albert Wessbecher, a grocer, at 2902 Shenandoah avenue, asking that a receiver be appointed for the Kellerstrass Distilling Co., 23 South Fourth street.

W. M. Byrne, president of the distilling company, is an insurance agent in the Pierce Building.

"I guess the allegations in Wessbecher's petition are about right," said Byrne today. "The Kellerstrass company is a bloomer. It looks as though we bought a gold brick. The company was originally organized here in 1897 by Ernest Kellerstrass of Kansas City. The whisky business was on the boom then, and under Kellerstrass' management it made big profits on its capital stock of $500,000. In those days they didn't have to give away silverware, razors, watches and bottles of champagne to induce people to buy the whisky.

Sold to Syndicate.

"After building up an enormous business through advertising, Kellerstrass sold out to a St. Louis syndicate in 1904, just before the World's Fair opened.

"The original St. Louis purchasers were Hamilton A. Forman, president of the (then existing) Fourth National Bank, and other officials and directors of that bank. One of the heavy holders was an Olive street furniture dealer. Another was Edward Westen of the Westen Tea, Coffee and Spice Co. I also became interested about that time, and have served as president and director, mainly as the representative of Westen and other large stockholders. I have about $15,000 invested in the company, and I guess it's gone up the spout."

In his petition, Wessbecher, who holds 250 of the $10 shares, alleges that in 1912 and early in 1914 the directors caused the company to waste more than $1000 by giving away two bottles of champagne with every gallon of whisky sold, the price of the whisky being $4.65 a gallon.

Was Cider, Westen Says.

"That was just the manager's idea," said Westen, when asked about the alleged extravagant gifts of champagne. "It was a former manager. He isn't with the company now. He thought it would sound fine to advertise that the company would give away champagne. But it wasn't real champagne. It was a sort of champagne cider, and it cost about 15 cents a bottle. I didn't understand that two bottles of the champagne were to be given with every gallon of whisky. I think it was just a sort of Christmas gift to customers who ordered a certain amount of whisky, and each customer got only one bottle. I invested about $50,000 in the company, but I was never active in its management.

"Most of the company's business was with Texas customers. When laws were passed forbidding us to ship liquor through prohibition states or into prohibition counties, the company lost much of its business."

Profit 200 Per Cent.

Wessbecher threw an interesting light on the profits of the mail order whisky business while discussing his receivership suit. He said that at a stockholder's meeting held at the company's offices last Thursday, the statement was made that the raw material for a gallon of whisky costs the company $1.15. This is 100-proof. It is reduced to about 90-proof, thus bringing the actual cost of the gallon down to about $1. The whisky is then sold for $3.15, a profit of more than 200 per cent.

In support of his contention that the business has been extravagantly managed, Wessbecher said the books of the company showed that the net profit on a gallon of whisky was only 52 cents, the remainder of the gross profit having been consumed in the purchase of premiums to be given to customers.

The champagne scheme was a fizzle, Wessbecher says. Customers wouldn't buy the whisky, and the company had the champagne left on its hands and sold it for about the cost of the bottles. An attempt to give away a $5 watch with each $15 purchase was equally disastrous, he said, as the company ultimately had to sell its entire stock of premium watches for $1.75 each.

Bottom Dropped Out.

President Byrne told a reporter he would go into court and agree that a receiver be appointed. "We may be able to get some of our money back if the Court will let us reduce our capital stock and continue in business," he said. "If not, we will go into liquidation. We've been trying to induce others to liquidate for several years, but it seems the bottom has dropped out of the mail order whisky business."

SOME OF SCHOOLS TO USE CITY WATER AGAIN

Supt. Blewett Orders Drinking Supply Turned on in Buildings North of Lami Street.

Supt. Blewett of the public schools today sent letters to the principals of schools north of Lami street instructing them to have the drinking water turned on at their schools.

The water at all public schools was turned off three weeks ago when Health Commissioner Starkloff reported colon bacilli in the water.

Supt. Blewett was informed by Assistant Health Commissioner Jordan today that there is no danger from water north of Lami street, but that no water should be used south of that street without first boiling it.

LADIES' HAIRDRESSING IN LONDON AND PARIS

By Constance

When I was in Europe this year I found both cities so thickly dotted with hairdressing parlors and Hair goods stores that I wondered if the women ever had time for anything but care of the hair. Personally I was chiefly interested in finding a really good shampoo and I found that they never use makeshifts but always some item made for shampooing only, and I was happily surprised when several inquiries each brought the suggestion that our own American made canthrox shampoo is best. They like it because in addition to being perfectly safe and making the hair free from all dandruff, excess oil and dust, it is so simple to get canthrox from any druggist and just dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water, knowing you will then have a preparation that makes the hair not only entirely clean but so fluffy that it appears very heavy. Canthrox stimulates the scalp to healthy action, making the head feel good, and the hair look good.—ADV.

Just One Application and the Hairs Vanish

(Toilet Talks)

Any woman can keep her skin free from unsightly hair or fuzz if she will follow these simple instructions: When hairy growths appear, apply a simple paste, made by mixing some water with powdered delatone. Apply this to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a harmless treatment, but be sure you get the real delatone.—ADV.

Baseball Chefs Think They Can Preserve Harmony by Canning Managers

MR. SHORT SPORT: Pshaw, Shorty! you ought to know it was a long range battle

By Jean Knott

MACKMEN SHOULD LAND BROWNS IN FIFTH POSITION

Full Team of Regulars Will Reappear Next Monday in Series Against Yanks.

STARS WILL REST UP

McInnis, Barry, Collins, Baker and Strunk to Lay Off Remainder of Week.

By W. J. O'Connor,

Connie Mack's champions of christendom are taking a rest cure for the remainder of this week, to be on edge for the series with the Braves, which opens nine days hence. Before yesterday's game with the Browns, Mack sent Eddie Collins and Frank Baker East to watch Stallings' team in action against the Giants, while immediately after the closing battle here all the regulars were shipped to Philadelphia. They will enjoy absolute idleness until next Monday, when they reappear in the box score against the Yankees.

This tactical move on Mack's part may be the means of landing Branch Rickey's team in fifth place. Mack presented a team of semi-pros against the Browns yesterday, a recruit from the Donnelly Stars pitching part of the game, which the Browns won, 7—1. It almost was a presentation.

Tough Break for New York.

The next appearance of the full team of Mack regulars will be against the Yankees, who have been fighting the Browns for sixth place. Mack will tune up his champions in this series and if the Mackmen really are on edge they should beat back the managerless New York entry. That leaves the fight for fifth place between the Browns and White Sox, and if Rickey's regulars show the proper fight they should land themselves at the top of second division, a very acceptable berth.

Today the Browns open a series of three games with the Tigers. They close their home stand on Thursday and then go to Chicago for four games and the Windy City series is sure to involve the lead of the lower tier. The Browns aim to snare this berth for the benefit it will have on the fall series with the Cardinals. A clash between the third-place team of the National League and the fifth-placers of the American should prove an attractive series, the second best feature of interleague competition this fall.

McInnis' Injury Slight.

The report that Stuffy McInnis, the 181-pound first sacking jewel of Mack's champions, had suffered a fractured bone in his left hand was spiked both by Mack and McInnis before the Athletics entrained for the East.

"My hand is only slightly bruised," said McInnis Monday, "and I could have played today if I wanted to. However, Mr. Mack made it optional with all the regulars as to whether they should play and I laid off of my own accord. It was the first game I have missed this season. I'm a little underweight—I scale at 181—but I feel fit. I like our chances in the world's series."

John Coombs, the mighty man of Maine, started his first game in the American League yesterday since the opening game of the 1913 campaign in Boston. Coombs pitched the first game against the Red Sox a year ago on a cold day. He was taken down with fever and has not been of any service to his team since. He worked three innings yesterday and was batted freely, showing none of his old cunning. Coombs says he will start again Friday in Philadelphia.

Florance Curran Named to Succeed Theo. Bland as W. A. A. U. President

Florence Curran was elected president of the Western division of the A. A. U. at the annual meeting last night, succeeding Theodoric Bland, whose name was withdrawn because of illness. Mr. Bland did not attend. John J. O'Connor, for several years the president of the Western division, was named first vice-president; William Westhus, second vice-president; William Owen, third vice-president, and Tom Watts, fourth vice-president. Edward L. Tobin was renamed secretary and treasurer, with Charles Stevens as official handicapper.

It was decided at this meeting that two teams would be sent to the Panama Exposition games, one from Kansas City and one from St. Louis. A proposition also was made to merge these teams as a Missouri delegation.

Dr. J. A. Reilly, athletic director of the Kansas City A. A., and Martin Delaney of the Chicago A. A. attended.

Pastime Soccer League Meeting.

Work for the reorganization of the Pastime Park Sunday Soccer League will be taken up tonight at a meeting of the managers to be held tomorrow night at 4516 North Newstead avenue. Soccer enthusiasts are invited.

WRAY'S COLUMN

-BECK-

Mack Has the Idea.

CONNIE MACK'S conservatism in the matter of handing out advance tips on what his club will do against the Boston Braves, in the coming world series, is that of a man who has profited by history and observation.

Admittedly possessed of the best known club in the baseball world he still declines to admit that the world's series is his, on the ground that the best team does not always win, in a single series.

Were the Athletics mathematically able to deliver their best performance when most was required of them, being in any chance of failure, there would be less hope for the Braves notwithstanding all we may say about the remarkable things the club has done this season.

But the Athletics CAN'T GUARANTEE THEIR PERFORMANCE, and therein lies the hope of the Braves. The mighty Collins may boot the ball three times in one game, as we have seen him do; the home-run wonder, Baker, may hit into the disheartening double play, like any Brownie; and the wonderful Barry may let the game go between his legs.

The chances are that these things will not happen; but they MAY, such is the uncertainty of the game.

• • •

Will It Be Another 1906?

THE stage is all set for a repetition of the world's championship drama of 1906. In that year we had, on the one hand, the "greatest baseball machine that ever," etc., ad lib., the Chicago Cubs. It was equipped not only with hitting talent, but it had air-tight pitching and more "brains" assembled on it than ever was allotted to one team, prior to that year.

On the other hand we had the White Sox, an underestimated club which had come from behind and fought its way to the front with an unprecedented run of victories, landing in first place at the last hour by almost superhuman efforts, plus a world of good luck.

Before the world's series the Cubs were strong favorites. Two to one on the series was the price, and there were skads of coin eager to be buried at this figure.

• • •

Cubs Better Than Athletics?

SUBSTITUTE Athletics for Cubs and Braves for White Sox, and you have today an exact duplicate of the 1906 situation, except that the earlier prospect was even stronger in favor of the Cubs.

For, where the Athletics have won 95 games, the Cubs that year had set a record of 116 victories, which still stands.

Viewing these facts, can you blame Connie Mack for doubting that his club has a cinch? There is NO certainty in baseball.

• • •

Thanks to the Feds.

AMONG the good things—there are lots of bad things, too—that have resulted from the advent of the Feds is the overthrow of the New York pennant "trust." To that we may add that the chances are McGraw will remain overthrown, unless peace is declared this winter.

McGraw is anchored to a lot of dead material which hooked him into about $100,000 worth of long-term contracts. The club cannot afford to carry many new ones and this old stock, too; so it appears that Muggsy will have to stand pat, with few exceptions, or establish a record payroll.

• • •

Only Five Live Giants.

THE team he has now is about done. On the season's showing it appears that the following men are the only ones worth noting of those signed up to long-time contracts: Meyers, Burns, Doyle, Fletcher, Tesreau. The others may or may not be "done." Matty has been counted out several times, but his weakening this year seems serious. Marquard ought to come back.

Even so, McGraw needs at least half a dozen first-class men to restore his breaking club. He'll have a hard time getting them, and a harder time paying the salaries out of receipts, after he lands them.

It's a pretty blue outlook for the man who already owns the two most costly lemons known to the world: Rube Marquard, $11,500, and O'Toole, $22,500.

• • •

Worth Listening To.

CHARLES EBBETS is making a noise like a pennant contender with that Brooklyn team. Receiving good pitching of late, the club has come with a rush and has shown itself equal to the best.

It is LEADING BOTH MAJOR LEAGUES IN HITTING, Stengel, Wheat, Daubert and Dalton forming a quartet of sluggers to compare favorably with the Bakers and Collinses of the Athletics.

Picking World's Series Winner Is Foolish or Boastful—C. Mack

CORNELIUS McGILLICUDDY, believed to be the greatest baseball manager alive, probably is the least-quoted man in the game today. Withal, he's the most approachable leader in baseball, always willing to be interviewed, although he "never says nothing."

"What can I say?" was his answer to a request for an expression on the coming world's series. "If I should say that we will win and we lose, I'll be made to look foolish. If I say that we win and we do, it's merely vain boasting.

"You know, baseball is made up of the unexpected. In my time I have won a number of games I should have lost and have lost lots I should have won. So to predict anything in baseball is almost foolish. Who knows but that good players may be injured before the series, thereby changing the entire situation. Little Mike Mcvoy was hurt in practice this (Monday) afternoon. You can't govern those things. But I will say that the Athletics are in good shape now and will play to win. We shall see how they come out."

It is the only club in the League that owns the season's verdict over the Braves in games won and lost. In this respect the Brooklyns appear to be a better club than Boston, having won 12 and lost 6 games on the season to date.

Ebbets, for once, is not talking altogether through his hat when he declares he has the best team in the National League. He has an argument, if nothing else.

No Kick on This Kick.

THERE is a standing prejudice existing against losing one's job, but more especially against being kicked out of it. But sometimes the boots are goods fairies in disguise. Johnny Evers and George Stallings are two men who were kicked out of desirable, paying positions; but instead of landing hard, they wound up in an elderdown bunk with gold lace trimmings.

Evers, when booted out of the managership of the Cubs, landed into a $12,500 a year salary, with a $20,000 bonus for signing. He will in addition get at least $2500 for his share of the world's series loot.

At this rate Johnny could invite the kicking process annually and welcome the thud.

George Stallings was chased out of the American league by Ban Johnson, the secret "Waiver B" being tagged on him so that he could go clear through the league and out into the cold, cold world, which, Johnson thinks, lies beyond the confines of his organization.

But the kick merely sent George, by way of Buffalo, into the managership of a pennant winning club, and perhaps of a world's champion team, netting him, no doubt, many more dollars and much glory.

Wanted: A couple of kicks like these.

According to a Pittsburg dispatch, Ed Konetchy is the only regular on the Pirate club who hasn't signed for next year. At that there doesn't seem to be much worry about the Big Train's hesitancy.

EIGHT MATCHES IN SECOND ROUND OF WOMEN'S TOURNEY

Mrs. Lansing Ray Meets Mrs. Mix in Feature of First Match Play Today.

The first round of match play in the women's golf championship tournament will be played this afternoon on the Normandie Golf Club links. Eight matches are scheduled for play in the championship class, and classes A and B.

The feature match of the day should be that between Mrs. E. Lansing Ray and Mrs. George E. Mix. Mrs. Ray divided qualifying score honors with Mrs Laura Kaiser yesterday, each turning in a 96.

Mrs. Mix's best effort was 113. However, this is below her usual game and she is expected to give Mrs. Ray quite an argument this afternoon.

The only other medal play score out of 45 turned in that was under 100, yesterday, was a 98 by Mrs. A. N. Edwards. She meets Mrs. C. W. Scudder today in the opening rounds.

Pairings for Championship Class.

Mrs. E. L. Ray (96) vs. Mrs. G. E. Mix (113).

Miss Ruth Brown (108) vs. L. P. Aloe (106).

Mrs. Fred Hattersly (107) vs. Mrs. E. C. Sullivan (117).

Mrs. A. N. Edwards (98) vs. Mrs. C. W. Scudder (111).

Mrs. F. E. Newberg (100) vs. Mrs. A. T. Terry (113).

Mrs. S. Stephens (110) vs. Mrs. T. H. Wrest (104).

Mrs. Fred Plant (103) vs. Mrs. T. P. Bates (118).

Mrs. A. R. Deacon (112) vs. Miss Laura E. Kaiser (96).

St. L. U. Squad Grows.

Twenty-six Billiken candidates reported for practice yesterday, and were sent through a long signal drill followed by a scrimmage. Signal work seems to be the Grand avenue boys' chief need now. They have been together but a short time and do not work together smoothly. It is thought that at least 35 gridsters will be out tonight. Two new comers last night were Cooperman, a 195-pound linesman, and Pascal, a 210-pound guard. These two men should make up for the deficiency of weight in Keogan's ranks. James Milliken, the foe for Saturday has been at practice for two weeks now and has the edge of the locals. The game will be played on the St. Louis U. campus.

30 Soccer Teams in City Leagues.

Representatives of over 30 amateur soccer teams attended a meeting of the Municipal Soccer League, held in room 300 of the City Hall last night. The Muny league, which plays its games in the various public parks, was composed of 24 teams last year. A greater number is expected to enter this fall. Christian Brothers College was represented.

Local Golfers Go to St. Joseph.

Golfers who are to compete in the annual State championship tournament at St. Joseph, Mo., departed on a special train last night. They were headed by Jesse L. Carleton and Bonner Miller, secretary of the State association. The tournament starts tomorrow.

Williams Stops Herman.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—"Kid" Williams of Baltimore, the bantamweight champion, last night stopped Kid Herman of Pekin, Ill., in the fourth round of what was to have been a six-round boxing bout. Herman forced the fighting in the first round, but weakened in the second, and was forced to the floor in the fourth round by a succession of body blows delivered by the champion.

HANS LOBERT TO SUCCEED DOOIN AS PHILS' BOSS

Change Expected When Contract of Present Leader Expires Next Month.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—It was reported in baseball circles here today that unless there is an unexpected hitch, John B. Lobert, the third baseman of the Philadelphia National League team, will be made manager of the club at a meeting of the directors of the organization to be held this week. The contract of Charles S. Dooin, who has managed the Phillies for several years, expires with the close of the present season.

Lobert has been with the local team since 1911, when he figured in a big trade between the Philadelphia and Cincinnati clubs.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—President B. B. Johnson of the American League, and member of the National Baseball Commission, left for Philadelphia last night to attend a meeting of the commission on Wednesday, at which plans for the world's series will be completed. The series will begin, he said, on Oct. 9.

Mack's Team Made Up of Stars and "Excess Baggage"; Browns vs. Tigers

CONNIE MACK is carrying what is probably the smallest squad any championship team ever toted around. He has only 23 players on the payroll, and three of those are purely excess, towit: Harry Davis, John Coombs and Ira Thomas. Of course they compose a valuable board of strategy, but the actual playing is left to a comparatively small coterie and if only those who have seen service in the box scores were to share in the world's series jackpot, the revenue would be great for everybody.

Counting Davies, an interchangeable pitcher and outfielder, Mack has five gardeners, towit: Strunk, Walsh, Murphy and Oldring. His catchers are Schang, Lapp, Thomas (more a coach), and McAvoy, the youngster who was injured yesterday. Bender, Plank, Bush, Wyckoff, Coombs, Bressler and Shawkey are the pitchers, while McInnis, Collins, Barry, Baker, Kopf and Davis are the infielders. It is highly probable that only 22 men will share in this year's world's series.

Garry Herrmann needs a wrench; his manager is a nut. Mr. Herzog, who started with a flourish and then permitted such stars as Marsans, Moran and others to get away, landing the Reds in last place, has been indefinitely suspended for sending an "insulting telegram" to President Tener. Herzog needs a manager more than his club.

Ty Cobb, world's champion batter, will show at Sportsman's Park this afternoon with his confreres from Detroit. Manager Rickey, who is fighting for fifth place, will send either Wellman or Baumgardner against the Tigers, but he can expect stiff competition, as Jennings' crew can acquire third place by winning three games here.

There was no practice game this morning at Sportsman's Park, as Rickey was busy with minor league magnates who are here to snare the available talent. Rickey announces, though, that he will use Kauffman on first against left-handed hitters and may slip Clemens into the outfield for the remainder of the season.

The Superbas have flatly turned down an offer to play the Brookfeds a series, one-third of the proceeds to go to charity. Organized baseball will not mingle with the outlaws in any sort of competition.

Denver lost the Western League pennant this year by a wide margin to Sioux City, but Jack Hendrix, now manager of the Indianapolis A. A. team, was at the helm Denver always finished on top. Hendrix has arranged a series between Denver and Indianapolis, both teams being owned by Jimmy Magill.

Coyne, Not Cohn, With Mack.

Announcer Red McAuliffe caused considerable excitement at Sportsman's Park yesterday by mumbling his words. To those who listened it appeared that Mr. McAuliffe announced "Cohn playing third" for the champions. After this had seeped in the fans howled for an explanation.

"Cohn, on the Athletics? Impossible!" yelled Stockerry, the rooter. McAuliffe then interviewed the new third sacker and offered a correction, to-wit: "Coyne, C-O-Y-N-E, playing third," and Red spelled the name. Coyne fits in better with Barry, Collins, McInnis, Walsh and Murphy.

CARDS KICK OFF CHANCE TO PASS M'GRAW'S TEAM

Hugs's Men, by Listless Play, Lose Final Game to Brooklyn —Move to Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 29.—The Cardinal regulars arrived here this morning with a day to loaf before playing tomorrow the one game they have here before they hie homeward for their last stand. The recruits went home from New York last night.

The players are a little worried over what sort of a lineup George Stallings will present against the Giants for the five-game series they have in the big town. With the pennant cinched, they are afraid the Braves will use their second string players and the Giants will make a clean-up, bootless so far as the championship is concerned, but important as far as its bearing on the final position of the Cards goes. If the Cubs should happen to clean the Cards while the Giants were beating Boston, it would push St. Louis down to fourth place, and lose the extra 5 per cent bonus they will earn by finishing better than fourth.

From the manner in which they played yesterday it would look as though they had a telepathic tip the Cubs were not going to hurt them to any serious extent in the last stand at home, and the fact that the Bostons walked over the corpses of the O'Dayites yesterday may have helped them along in this impression.

Players Lack "Pep."

One thing is certain, and that is that in the final game in Brooklyn they didn't seem to care much what happened. They appeared to be playing merely to earn their salaries, or rather to have an alibi on payday, for they didn't earn anything. Sallee was the chief offender. Whatever possessed him in the first inning, it was not a sense of fear that the Dodgers might win.

On the first four balls he pitched, Brooklyn scored one run and had the bases full. Then along came Cutshaw with a home run drive back of the farthest corner of the field, behind the flagstaff in the center-field angle of the fence. The conditions which made this home run so fatal were partly due to Sallee. Myers' single to center that opened the game was honest enough, but when Hummell tried to sacrifice Sallee threw the ball to center field, trying for Myers at second, Myers reaching third and Hummell second. Stengel's single scored Myers and sent Hummell to second. Wheat sent a tap a little to the right of Sallee, who never made a move to field it, relying entirely on Beck. But Beck ran to his bag on the chance of a throw to catch Hummell, and Butler rushed toward second on the chance of a play there to catch Stengel. As a result the corners were filled, and then Cutshaw cut loose with his smash that won the game.

Alton Fans Say 'Cyclone' Daley Beat Trendall

Referee Tommy Sullivan Gave St. Louisan Decision in Alton Fight.

Those who witnessed the six-round boxing match between Harry Trendall of this city and "Cyclone" Daley of Brooklyn, held under the auspices of the Moose Lodge in Alton last night, vehemently disagree with Referee Tommy Sullivan's verdict in favor of Trendall.

Of the six rounds it was thought by the crowd that Trendall had the best of but one, the fourth, while Daley had the advantage in the first, second and fifth. Trendall was holding to the ropes when the bell rang in the first. Sullivan's decision came on the strength of some lightning infighting by Trendall at the end of the sixth round.

Trendall injured his arm last Wednesday and only went on to fulfill his agreement with the club. He injured his left hand very seriously in the second round of the bout last night, and only finished the bout on his nerve.

He was treated after coming home last night by Dr. I. W. Powell.

"Sailor" Burke, one of St. Louis' improving young fighters, won from Lindley Larrison, in the preliminary, when he stopped his opponent in the third round.

Carpentier Wounded London Dispatch Says

PARIS, Sept. 29.

THE Figaro, quoting from London dispatches, announced today that Georges Carpentier, the champion fighter of France and candidate for the world's title, had been wounded." No details were given.

Carpentier was one of the first to be called out. He is not yet 21 years of age.

McLeod Fights St. Paul Star.

Joe Kelly, a young St. Paul fighter and Archie McLeod who has won a number of bouts in local rings, will furnish the feature event of the boxing show at the Tower Social A. C., this evening. They are scheduled to box eight rounds. Fighting Moore and "Kid" Nabors are the pair announced for the semi-windup while Bob Evans and Jack Biddle are the pair that will act as curtain raisers. The first bout will be started at 8.30 o'clock.

Beecher and Dundee Draw.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 29.—Willie Beecher and Johnnie Dundee, lightweights, both of New York, fought 20 rounds to a draw at the Vernon arena last night.

Chavez Is Knocked Out.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 29.—Ritchie Mitchell of Milwaukee knocked out Bennie Chavez of Trinidad, Colo., in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout here last evening.

C. B. C. ENDS NOT UP TO STANDARD FOR ILLINI GAME

Coach Ward's Eleven in Other Respects Looks Strong for Saturday's Contest.

Although the 1914 football season received its formal opening locally last Saturday with several minor games, the first real tests for local schools come this week. All three collegiate elevens will get into action, Washington meeting Shurtleff, St. Louis U. hooking up with James Milliken and Christian Brothers' College journeying to Champaign for a game with Illinois. The Illinois-C. B. C. is the all-important contest.

It would be thought that after scrimmaging his men every afternoon for the past two weeks, that Coach Ward would let down on his men with this game but four days distant. However, instead of giving his men a breathing spell, Ward is working them harder than ever. Scrimmage every afternoon, a long signal drill in the gymnasium in the evening, followed by a black-board talk. All of which shows that the purple and gold eleven refuses to allow Illini to consider it a practice team. Ward has hopes of defeating the conference team.

Ward Names His Eleven.

The past week's work has wrought havoc in the college ranks. The lineup that looked the best some 10 days ago is now entirely different than the one that will be used Saturday. Of course there is still time to make changes between today and game time, but according to recent workouts, the men will line up against Zuptke's men in the following order:

Lynn, l. e.; W. Essman, l. t.; Brenton, l. g.; Essman, c.; Diver, r. g.; Ahlstrom, r. t.; Hart, r. e.; Gallagher, q. b.; Shank, l. h.; Shea, r. h.; Rodgers, f. b.

The only dubious positions are the ends. The wings form the main worry of Coach Ward. Hart, Hironimous and Lynn are striving for the positions. They are all good men, but each has a weakness. Lynn is a wonderful defensive man and a great tackler, but is quite undersized to play against the strong teams that the college will meet. Hart is a fine offensive man, but weaker on the defense than Lynn.

Hironimous has the advantage of the other two in size, but not quite as shifty. Diver is the real choice for end, but in order to strengthen the line he has been placed at guard. Shea, Shank and Rodgers are the real strength of the team. A set of great line-smashing backs.

W. U. Men Driven Hard.

After running over an opposing eleven and rolling up a total of some 66 points, it would be thought that a team would be quite fagged and too worn out to engage in a scrimmage session on the next practice day. However, not so at Washington. Coach Edmunds put his Piker charges through an hour workout, yesterday, and for half of the time, he had the first and second teams lining up against each other.

The rest of the session was used in practicing the kickoff. Washington did very slovenly work in this branch, Saturday. On a number of occasions, fumbles that may have proved costly playing against a stronger team were made.

The Washington backs also often dropped the ball when tackled hard. This afternoon's practice will be used in practicing the forward pass.

Coaches Edmunds and Thomas were seen to take down notes during the game, Saturday. Yesterday the men were told of their technical errors and the various plays were resumed. Shurtleff gave the Pikers a scare last year but the locals have no fear for the Alton boys this season.

Hoppe Loses to Inman; British Game No 'Cinch'

First Match, English Style Billiards Sees American Lose, 602 to 304.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Willie Hoppe today will endeavor to make up at American style billiards the number of points he fell behind last night when Melbourne Inman, of Twyckenham, England, defeated him 602 to 304 at British style billiards.

Last night Hoppe showed a fair mastery of the English game, but was not up to the Briton in execution as the score indicates. Today two matches will be played, the afternoon game at American style and the evening game at English style. Hoppe expects to outclass the Briton at balk line even more than he himself was at the British game.

Five Matches to Be Played.

The first game was played on 9x12 English table and Hoppe's showing was fairly promising considering his unfamiliarity with the English style.

The match, which was the first of a series of five to be decided here and at Chicago, Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, Canada. The match here and the Chicago contest, which will take place two weeks hence, will consist each of 11 games, five of 600 points each at English billiards and six of 800 points each at 18.2 balkline billiards.

A money stake of $1000 a side will be involved in each match, and the winner and loser will divide the net gate receipts on a basis of 65 and 35 per cent.

St. Louis Boy, Star of Blue Jay Eleven, Hurt; Three Ribs Fractured

FULTON, Mo., Sept. 29.—It was learned this morning that Francis E. (Tad) Fisher of St. Louis, quarterback of the Westminster College football team, is suffering with three broken ribs and probably will be out of the game for the season. Fisher had been playing with the damaged ribs and did not learn of the fracture until examined by a physician. He has been a star of the baseball team for three seasons and is manager of football and baseball at the school.

Mantell Beaten by Dillon.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 29.—Jack Dillon, Indianapolis middleweight, gave Frank Mantell of Pawtucket, R. I., a severe beating in a 12-round, no-decision bout here last night. Mantell's blocking, particularly after the seventh round, prevented the aggressive Dillon from landing a knockout blow.

SPORT SALAD BY L. C. DAVIS.

Some Day.

I KNOW not when the day shall be,
I know not who we'll have to beat
Or what the names and pedigree
Of those we're destined to defeat.
It may not be till years have passed,
Till eyes are dim and whiskers gray;
But when the title has turned at last,
Our Browns will win the flag, SOME DAY.

• • •

Buck Herzog has been indefinitely suspended by President Tener. Can it be that Garry Herrmann is using the Governor to pull his chestnut out of the fire?

• • •

Or did Buck lamp the handwriting on the wall and beat Garry to it, by inviting destruction at the hands of the Governor, thus depriving Owgoost of his annual canning bee.

• • •

While the Naps were winning the odd game from the Yanks, the Browns were winning an odd game from the Athletics. It was about the oddest game of the season.

• • •

Down to Our Size.

We are duly grateful to Mr. McGillicuddy, though, for his kindness in putting a team in the field that the Browns could beat, as it put us on an even footing with the Yanks.

• • •

The game also served to shatter a popular delusion that has long obtained for lo, these many years, viz.: that nine clothing store dummies, dressed up in Athletic uniforms, could beat the Browns.

• • •

Native Son Fred Worden was warmly greeted by his fellow townsmen, Shotton, Austin, Walker, Williams and Agnew. Freddie would have been just as well satisfied if his reception hadn't been quite so enthusiastic.

• • •

The boys needed the hits, though, and a hit off of a native son boosts the average, just as much as one off of W. Johnson.

• • •

At that, Freddie has a nice little motion.

• • •

It Sounds Fatal.

In Joe Jenkins, the Browns have the nicest little warm-up catcher in the League. But why the black cap?

• • •

Not that it is any of our business, but we believe that the games at Sportsman's Park could be shortened at least 15 minutes by hiring an able-bodied valet or hostler to assist in putting the harness on Sam Agnew between innings. If Sam ever goes into vaudeville it will not be as a lightning change artist.

• • •

Judging by the performance of Catcher Lapp in yesterday's game, he must have been trying to get all of the wild throw out of his system before tackling the Braves.

• • •

Jack Coombs said to "come back" yesterday but was dragged before he had fairly gotten [illegible] weigh.

• • •

Incidentally [illegible] where the Cardinals were butchered to make an Ebbets holiday.

• • •

Even Earl Hamilton busted into the "H" colyum.

• • •

To show their contempt for the "13" hoodoo, the Brownies collected a bakers' dozen base hits off of Connie's joke twirling talent.

• • •

Charley Ebbets claims he has the best team in the National League "right now." Rave on, red raven, we shall not split tonight.

Principal Changes in Football Code

NO kickout after touchbacks; ball is put in play by scrimmage on 20-yard line.

Even the head coach is barred from following the team on the side lines.

Intentional grounding of forward pass is barred.

Roughing the forward passes means disqualification.

Forward pass out of bounds goes to opponents.

Receiver of a pass must have both feet in the pass zone.

A 5-yards penalty is imposed for starting a play out of bounds or in neutral zone.

Kicked ball bouncing back from goal to the field is a touchback.

Two successive kickoff attempts that go out of bounds gives ball to enemy on his 40-yard line.

Griff's Winning Pitcher, 19, Cost the Club $0.00

Jack Bentley, One of League's Brightest Stars, Imposed Himself on Washington Club.

Within a period of 11 days Jack Bentley, Washington's 19-year-old pitcher, has won three games out of four, allowing a total of 13 hits and five runs.

Bentley did not cost the Washington club one penny. He hails from Sandy Spring, Md., and was tipped off to Griff by a Washington fan last year.

The Old Fox invited the kid to try his luck in practice and was so favorably impressed with him that he carried him to Charlottesville last spring for the training season.

Until less than two weeks ago Bentley did not look to be much of a pitcher, but all of a sudden he came with a rush, blanking the world's champions on the morning of Labor day, holding them to one hit.

Since that time Bentley has trounced the New Yorks and St. Louis Browns. Carrigan's Red Sox beat him, but he pitched good ball in spite of defeat.

Last year Southpaw Joe Boehling was the sensation of the American League. Boehling found himself and pitched winning ball a month or so earlier than did Bentley this season, coming through with 11 straight triumphs on a stretch.

As was the case with Bentley, Joe Boehling did not cost the Washington club a nickel.

Any time a manager can pick up two southpaw pitchers the caliber of Boehling and Bentley without spending a wad of coin to get them, you've got to hand it to that manager. Our hat is off to Clark Griffith, the Old Fox.

Tackle Catarrh Now
Be Free All Winter

Avoid Colds, Stall Pneumonia, Keep Your Nose Clear and Your Throat Free.

Don't Wait Till You're All Bunged Up. Use S. S. S. Now.

If you will go into any first class store and get a bottle of S. S. S. you are on the way to getting rid of Catarrh. But don't let anyone work off that old trick of something "just as good."

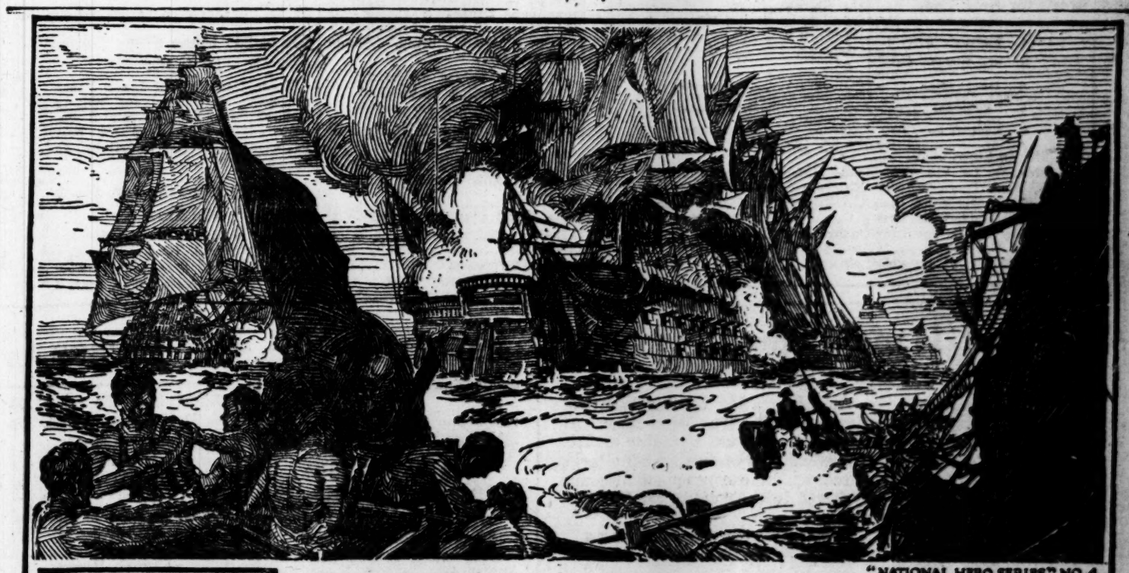

S. S. S. is taken into the blood just as naturally as the most nourishing food. It spreads its influence over every organ in the body, comes through all the veins and arteries, enables all mucous surfaces to exchange inflammatory acids and other irritating substances for arterial elements that effectually cleanse the system and thus put an end to all catarrhal pollution. S. S. S. cleans out the stomach of mucous accumulations, enables only pure, blood-making materials to enter the intestines, combines with these food elements to enter the circulation, and in less than an hour is at work throughout the body in the process of purification.

The medicinal components of S. S. S. are relatively just as essential to well-balanced health as the nutritive properties of the grains, meats, sugars, and fats of foods. Any local irritating influence in the blood is rejected by the tissue cells and eliminated by reason of the stimulating influence of S. S. S.

You will soon realize its wonderful influence by the absence of headache, a decided clearing of the air passages, a steadily improved nasal condition, and a sense of bodily relief that proves how completely catarrh often infests the entire system.

You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores. It is a remarkable remedy for any and all blood affections, such as eczema, rash, lupus, tetter, psoriasis, boils, and all other diseased conditions of the blood. "NATIONAL HERO SERIES" NO. 4

Lord Nelson—Old England's Great Naval Hero

WITHOUT Horatio Nelson, England would have been invaded and perhaps conquered by Napoleon. At Trafalgar he smashed forever the French Emperor's hope of creating a naval power. Never was man more idolized and beloved—not only by all of England's people who breathlessly awaited news of his telling victories, but by every man of his fleet. A true Anglo-Saxon, he detested tyrannous powers and legislative usurpations of every kind. He was particularly opposed to prohibitive enactments governing the diet of his men, who, like him, enjoyed Barley-Malt brews, even as their fathers did for countless generations before. Good beer, according to Lord Nelson, has ever been good food. Budweiser Beer for 57 years has been the product of an institution holding the highest ideals known to the ancient art of brewing. The output, due to Quality and Purity, has increased every year until 7,500 men are daily required to keep pace with the public demand. Budweiser sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.

WILLS "BEER TREAT FOR BOYS," THEN ENDS LIFE

Codicil Providing Fund Scratched Out Before Death of A. J. C. Lilich.

Arthur J. C. Lilich, a carriage driver, 28 years old, of 2944 North Fourteenth street, before ending his life, wrote a note directing arrangements for his funeral and disposition of his possessions and added this codicil: "Allow $5 for the boys for beer." The note was dated Sept 15.

Last night he walked into the saloon of George Long as 2035 Franklin avenue and announced he was going to kill himself. Before drinking the contents of an acid phial he scratched from his will the paragraph pertaining to the beer treat.

Lilich's effects were turned over to his aunt, Mrs. Kate Frank of 405 St. George street. He left a small insurance policy and a cemetery lot deed.

Bank Robbers Escape With $1525.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 29.—Within a hundred yards of the Utah State prison, a masked man yesterday held up George A. Goff, cashier of the Sugar House Bank, and Clifford Goff, a bookkeeper, locked the two men in the bank vault, took $1525 and escaped.

MOTHER SHOOTS DAUGHTER, ASLEEP, WOUNDS HERSELF

Mrs. Manda Case, Unstrung by Illness, Fires on Girl in Bed.

BOTH HURT SERIOUSLY

Elder Woman Often Had Threatened to Kill Herself, Husband Says.

While Miss Edna Case, 25 years old, slept at her home, 1808 Rutger street, today, her mother, Mrs. Manda Case crept up to the girl's bed and shot her in the back of the head with a revolver.

Mrs. Case then shot herself in the head and fell unconscious to the floor. Both were taken to the city hospital, where their conditions are serious.

Ill health is the reason advanced by Mrs. Case's sister, Miss Evaline Huse, for the act. Mrs. Case and her sister were sleeping in the same bed in a room which adjoins a small hall room used by Miss Case.

About 6 o'clock Miss Huse was awakened by the shot and saw her sister leaning over her daughter's bed. Before she could cry out, Mrs. Case raised the revolver to her own head and fired.

After the arrival of neighbors Miss Huse went to her niece's bed. The girl, according to Miss Huse, could not be convinced she had been shot until she placed her hand to the back of the head and felt blood. She then lapsed into unconsciousness.

Miss Huse sent a boy to the postoffice annex to summon Andrew B. Case, husband of Mrs. Case. He is a postoffice clerk. Before he got home an ambulance had carried the mother and sister to the hospital.

Miss Huse told reporters her sister has been suffering from stomach trouble for years and had despaired of getting well. She has threatened to kill herself many times, Miss Huse said.

Case told the police his wife, who is 51 years old, has often threatened to kill herself and told her daughter often that "when she left this world she would take her with her."

Case is employed at night, and had two revolvers in the house for the protection of the women.

JURY ADDS $50,500 TO THE HALLOCK ESTATE

Verdict Is That Stock in Realty Firm and Deeds of Trust Should Be Inventoried.

A jury in the Probate Court yesterday returned a verdict that $47,500 worth of stock of the Hallock Realty Co. and three $1000 deeds of trust should be inventoried as assets of the estate of the late Leander Hallock, former Methodist minister and realty agent. This property was not included in the estate inventory as made by his son, Ross C. H. Hallock, 4261 Hartford street, a former member of the House of Delegates, as executor of the elder Hallock's property.

The Probate Court hearing was on complaint of Mrs. Fannie H. Cramer, a daughter of the Rev. Mr. Hallock. Her father died Dec. 7, 1910, and his will was filed for probate June 22 last. The minister left his property to his widow, who died last January. Ross Hallock explained in court that he did not file his father's will because he did not think such action necessary, all matters in respect to property having been arranged out of court.

His mother, he said, wrote a will, but destroyed it a short time before her death because she did not want her daughter, Mrs. Cramer, to know she had made one. He denied that any assets had been withheld. He said it was his understanding that the heirs were to get their respective portions from the property, which had been placed in a corporation.

Special This Week at May-Stern's

"Divan-Bed" Davenport

A Parlor Settee When Closed—
A Comfortable Bed When Opened—

Terms—$1.50 Cash—$1.50 a Month— $22.50

It's Di ferent

This Divan-Bed Davenport is different than anything you have heretofore seen in this line—it is a neat and attractive parlor settee—takes up less space than the old style davenport, yet opens up into a large and restful bed, as big, broad and comfortable as any bed you ever slept in.

Construction

The frames are of solid oak in Colonial design—upholstered in best quality imitation leather—the spring, mattress and bedding are under the seat and come into position when the seat is turned, so you do not sleep on the upholstering, as is the case with nearly all other bed-davenports.

Has Bed-Springs

This bed-davenport has a set of broad, comfortable springs which support the mattress when the davenport is open. The mattress is removable, so it can be cleaned, aired and turned the same as an ordinary bed.

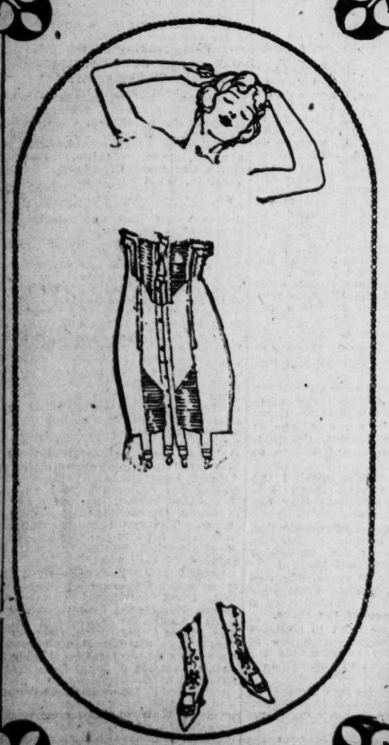

The Price—$22.50

Our price—including the springs (without the mattress) is $22.50—and the terms are equally attractive—all you pay is $1.50 cash and this Divan-Bed Davenport will be delivered to your home—and you can pay the balance $1.50 a month.

For This AEOLIAN-Built 88-Note Player Piano and Outfit

As explained Sunday, we have received from the factory a very limited number of additional instruments and are thus enabled to continue this sale for a very few days longer.

Positively the Last Week of This Sale

This Aeolian-built Player-Piano—cased in mahogany—is finished as only Aeolian experts know how to finish fine woods. It is a full-scale 88-note player-piano, embodying Aeolian improvements of the most important character, which includes, for instance, the solist device by which the performer is enabled to make the melody sung clearly above the flow of accompaniment—impossible on any ordinary player-piano. The Artist's Sustaining device automatically reproduces the intricate pedaling effect of the great pianists. Many other important improvements are also embodied in this instrument, which is a worthy product of the great Aeolian organization of player and piano experts.

For only $2.50 a week you may have this instrument in your home to enjoy while you pay for it. The payments will be so small that you will hardly feel them. In the meanwhile, you may have thrown open to you the world's music from the most sublime classical compositions to the latest ragtime and song hits.

Only a few of these instruments remain on hand and the selling has been very brisk, indeed, and doubtless in but a few days, and certainly by the end of the week we shall have to declare this sale closed for lack of instruments. Do not compare this with ordinary player-pianos—it is superior to every player-piano excepting the Pianola alone. Inferior instruments are sold in ordinary piano stores for $600 or more. The price of this instrument complete, with all the extras included, is only $398—terms $2.50 a week. Come in tomorrow and see it.

You can do one of two things with Fels-Naptha Soap: You can do twice as much work, or do your regular work in half the time. Because Fels-Naptha cuts work in half, and it leaves the easy half for you to do.

If you use Fels-Naptha, your daily housework and cleaning will be easy.

The weekly wash, which women used to dread, can be finished in the morning, instead of dragging on through the whole day.

This is the Fels-Naptha way: Soap the clothes and put them to soak in cool or lukewarm water for thirty minutes; after they have soaked, rub them lightly, rinse and hang out.

Even the Men Agree With Anty Drudge

Mr. Reader—"Anty, this looks like a joke on me, but it's really one on Maria. She's always complaining about the wash—and yet she won't use Fels-Naptha Soap. I've read about it and asked her to—so I bet I could do the wash better than she did, and in half the time, and I have. This is the last piece. I just followed the directions like you said. It certainly is easy."

Anty Drudge—"Well, I hope Maria can be convinced now. Fels-Naptha is the only soap to use for all kinds of soap-and-water work."

Better buy Fels-Naptha by the carton or box.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Practical Help for a Cripple.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The column so kindly, even generously, given up to the readers of your great paper is often a concise reflection of humanity, especially in the case of "A Discouraged Unfit." Reading the suggestions offered in his behalf I cannot see what good it would do him to read books of advice just now. His letter showed him quite a ripe scholar, and such a brain might evolve some plan of sustenance (for at least he has all his senses), if financial aid were given rightly. He does not need reading matter, but he needs a chance to make a start. Let me suggest that this is the day of adroit advertising; he could do that, he uses good English, or he could start a portable news stand in a good neighborhood, or he could open a shoeshining parlor.

I want to be one of 200 to send him a dollar to help furnish a small capital for him. Thirty thousand men will read this. I hope each will send him a mite through the Post-Dispatch. What he needs is a small capital, not a bundle of dry lectures.

I enclose my dollar with best wishes for his success and full regard to the Post-Dispatch for its publication in the matter of this unfortunate man's case. HERBERT W. CANN.

Hurst, Ill.

(The $1 enclosed has been forwarded to the writer of the letter signed "A Discouraged Unfit." He does not wish his name and address made public, but it is on file in this ofice and will be given to anyone who desires to help him.—Ed. Post-Dispatch.)

To An Unknown Good Samaritan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Would the young man who brought the little boy home that took sick on the Cass avenue car, then onto the Taylor car, then onto the Spalding car, then home to 5203A Spalding avenue about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, Sept. 15th, kindly accept the mother's thanks and if convenient please call to see her as the boy died Sunday at 1:30 a. m.

BROKEN-HEARTED MOTHER.

Prof. Heller's Experience.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Will you permit me to rectify at two points the account of my recent European experiences which is contained in Sunday's Post-Dispatch? In the first place, I did not obtain financial assistance from the American Relief Committee in London, nor was I at any time in such straits as would have permitted or compelled me to apply for help. Hence, let your charity editor keep his hat on, or pass it for a worthier cause.

Nor did I, in the second place, apply for help to the American Consul-General at Antwerp. On Aug. 1 I repaired to that gentleman's office in search of certain necessary information and to have my papers vised. It was an exceedingly busy day for the consular officers and so, in spite of its being Sunday, the foreign consulates were open—all but that of the U. S. A. Our Consul-General (Diederich is his name) was spending the day at his private residence, deeply engrossed in observing the Sabbath. I was not admitted into his presence, nor even let into the precincts, and had to state my errand to an understrapper through the grille that separated the front garden from the pavement. Although the Sunday boat from Ostend might be the last to run, the only satisfaction I could obtain was the suggestion that I come to the office on Monday during hours. No, I had another satisfaction, namely, that of expressing an opinion on the official conduct of the Consul-General of the United States at Antwerp. OTTO HELLER,

Washington University.

Hay, O.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Many have "cussed" the auto, but considering the price of hay this year, and what it might have been with no autos, perhaps the busser is not so bad. WM. H. BARNSTABLE.

"Don't Shame St. Louis."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your editorial, "Don't Shame St. Louis" is timely and to the point. St. Louis depends largely on the cotton-producing section for trade and the original plan was to buy cotton at 10c a pound and hold for a market. This arrangement would result in giving the Southern farmer a chance to pay his bills and get ready for the 1915 crop. The Business Men's League "Buy a Bale Committee" will indeed shame St. Louis and that committee doubtless will succeed in buying cotton at much less than 10c, but what will St. Louis wholesalers and manufacturers pay ultimately by this short-sighted, narrow policy? The Business Men's League should not sanction the committee's plan. St. Louis should not be subjected to this humiliation. Big men should speak and act for St. Louis in such matters. St. Louis' substantial business men do not wish to profit by impoverishing the Southern cotton grower. They wish to help him. Pay him 10c for his cotton.

A. B. FAIR.

A VICIOUS AMENDMENT.

Several members of the Civic League with the approval of the Executive Committee are doing good work in directing the attention of the people of Missouri to the real meaning and purpose of constitutional amendment No. 1, which is to be submitted to a vote in the November election.

Ostensibly an amendment to prevent the submission of a single tax amendment, it is intended to prevent the submission of any proposal to amend the present antiquated and iniquitous tax system.

Not only does it forbid the submission of any tax amendment, but by its provisions concerning initiative and referendum petitions it strikes a surreptitious but effective blow at direct legislation. Under its provisions for the certifying of initiative petitions it would be extremely difficult to assure an election on the proposals to be submitted. The work of obtaining signatures to a petition might be nullified by the neglect of a single County Clerk or County Court in any county in the State. The prohibition against the submission of the same proposal within six years after its defeat seems to apply and is virtually intended to apply to the referendum as well as the initiative. Bad legislative enactments may thus be protected against the referendum for six years.

To cap the climax of this outrageous proposal and to fasten its vicious provisions upon the people it prohibits the submission of a proposal for its appeal. The people are asked to bind themselves never to make any changes in the tax system of the State.

The folly of the Missouri voters, if they approve amendment No. 1, will only be exceeded by the treachery of the men who are trying to dupe them through the single tax bugaboo into accepting it.

MAKING HIS POSITION CLEAR.

Senator Reed permits no Missourian to doubt that, although the pending Clayton anti-trust bill as reported out of conference may be the best the administration can get under the circumstances, it is not as good as the bill the Democratic party promised to the country, nor as good as he could make it if he had a free hand.

AMATEUR PAPERHANGING.

Paperhanging is evidently one of those things which every layman thinks he can do better than the regular professionals. These include running a newspaper, running a hotel, running the Government, Federal, State and municipal, and commanding the army and navy.

We would rather even try our own lawsuit at the risk of having a fool for a client than undertake to hang our own paper. Here is what happened to Ernest Chadwick, otherwise a highly exemplary citizen, when he essayed the difficult performance:

He was papering his kitchen at 6941 Lindenwood place. He had spread paste on a strip of paper and was on a ladder trying to fit it on the wall when he lost his balance and fell. He struck the gasoline stove and, upsetting it, caused an explosion.

The Chadwick home and that of Elmer Harlan, next door, No. 6937, were destroyed. The house at No. 6943, occupied by a family named Grayham, was damaged.

We believe in the union principles of live and let live, and although we sympathize deeply with Ernest, we admonish him not to scab on the extra-hazardous occupations. We feel that he will concur with us in classing paperhanging with steeplejacking and bee culture.

There are so many excellent moral principles to be educed from Ernest's experience that we hardly know which one to educe. Indeed, we should like to educe all of them if space were no object. The truths crowd upon us—that a man ought not to kick over the ladder by which he has risen; that every man should know and keep within his limitations; and we are most forcibly reminded of the wise scriptural injunction, "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."

OTHER HISTORIC DAYS OF PRAYER.

Sunday, Oct. 4, will be the eighth day on which the American people have been called to join their prayers—six times for peace, twice in memory of assassinated Presidents—Lincoln and Garfield. The dates and occasions:

May 9, 1798: To avoid war with France.

Jan. 12, 1815: To avoid war with Algeria.

Sept. 26, 1861: To end the war between the states.

April 30, 1863: To end the war between the states.

Aug. 1, 1864: To end the war between the states.

June 1, 1865: In commemoration of Lincoln.

Sept. 26, 1881: In commemoration of Garfield.

The American people's prayers will be offered on Oct. 4, 1914, for the first time in behalf of peace between foreign governments.

A TIMELY HINT.

The dismissal of A. Rustem Bey, Turkish Ambassador, for conducting a war propaganda from his office in Washington, may or may not have been intended to serve as a hint to other similar offenders against this country's policy of strict neutrality.

Whatever the Government's intention, the Hon. Bey's abrupt departure seems to have had the desired effect.

WHERE PEDESTRIANS HAVE NO RIGHTS.

On pleasant Sunday afternoons a constant stream of pedestrians trying to enter Forest Park at the Jefferson Memorial gateway must dodge hundreds of speeding automobiles and motor cycles, whizzing along Lindell boulevard. There is no traffic officer and seldom does any chauffeur or cyclist slow down at this important crossing.

When, at the risk of life, the pedestrian gets into the park his troubles have only begun. Not a traffic officer is to be seen at the frequent intersections of footpaths and oiled roads, used for speedways by the motorists. The curving of these roads adds to the peril of the pedestrians. There is nothing to do but watch for a lull in the rush of flying vehicles. Parents lift children and stand, tense and indignant, waiting for a chance to get across to the safety of the sod beyond. "They ought to slow up," is the comment. "But will they?" Who can compel them?

Unless traffic officers are placed in the parks, with instructions to give special attention to pedestrians, especially women and children, and to check reckless motor drivers, the parks will lose all attraction for the masses of the people. There is plenty of room for automobile and motor cycle speeding elsewhere. In a public park selfish disregard for the rights of others should not be permitted.

FIRST CHIEF CARRANZA "RECALLED."

The irreducible minimum in conditions on which, as named in Villa's ultimatum, the peace could be kept in Mexico was Carranza's elimination from the presidential possibilities.

Carranza's reply to this ultimatum named another irreducible minimum: That Villa himself must be eliminated. But Villa had always insisted that he did not want the presidency and he promptly notified Washington of his acceptance of the Carranza conditions.

So the prospect is that watchful waiting, which has been undismayed during more serious crises of the past, will justify itself in another brilliant vindication. That the two Constitutional leaders should have quarreled in the hour of victory seems further evidence of an incapacity on Carranza's part at critical times, which will diminish the regret felt at his deposition from the leadership with which we have associated him from the darkest period in the history of the Constitutional cause.

Villa, impatient because of the slow progress made since Huerta's exile, now nearly three months ago, suspicious perhaps of the Cientifico intrigues that have so often defeated Mexican betterments heretofore, formulated last week four demands of obvious wisdom and soundness. These demands related to the Constitutional conference called for Oct. 1 and were as follows:

1. That the conference give a pledge to re-establish National and State Governments within 30 days after the conference adjourned.
2. That no present army officer should be eligible as a candidate for any elective office.
3. That Federal and State Legislatures be convened immediately.
4. That the electoral college be selected for choosing the permanent president.

Three of the demands insisted on expedition in setting up civil government, that the country's recovery from the abnormal conditions of war might begin at the earliest possible moment. What was there unreasonable in these demands? The only remaining demand was that no army officer should be put in the presidency. When Mexico's unfortunate experience with military dictators is remembered, can this be said to be unwise or imprudent?

But Carranza ignored the demands. He is also charged with ignoring the Torreon agreement, made at a former time when it began to be uncertain as to just what the Constitutionalists were fighting for. He may, as Villa said at a time of earlier amity, have the "brain of an Anglo-Saxon and the soul of a Latin." But his Latin temperament must have obscured his Anglo-Saxon clearness of vision.

Villa is the great figure of the revolution. But for his series of victories, beginning a little more than a year ago, Carranza would now be a fugitive and Huerta would be ruling by murder at Mexico City. To ignore him in peace is as fatuous as to ignore him in war, for until it is disillusioned, Mexico will believe him still loyal to the great principles of reform for which he professed he was fighting.

KITCHENER'S WEAKNESS.

Kitchener of Khartoum, Britain's "soldier supreme," seems to be doing fairly good work supplying men and munitions for the actual fighting, but he shows to poor advantage beside Churchill and Beresford in giving out advance announcements of what the allies are going to do to Germany when they get around to it.

HOW THEY CAN AVOID IT.

Bankers who don't wish to be placed on Secretary McAdoo's list of money hoarders can avoid it by ceasing to hoard; by releasing their funds, above the legal reserve, for the legitimate needs of business.

Bankers who resent being listed as usurers can avoid it by ceasing to charge extortionate interest rates.

Those who, forgetting they are chartered to serve commerce and not to strangle it, continue hoarding and practicing usury, will, thanks to the Secretary's publicity plan, buy their excess profits at the cost of public favor.

THE HORROR OF HORRORS.

Students of events shudder at the horrors of this war, but they realize that it has not attained the horrors of the recent Russo-Japanese war, when Gen. Linevitch used to line his men up and kiss them before they went into battle. Only those who have witnessed the ferocity and grewsomeness of a set of Russian General's whiskers can imagine the cruelty of such a practice. May we attribute its conspicuous absence from the present strife to the influence of The Hague?

DISEASE GERMS' FLANK ATTACK.

Typhoid fever is said to be approaching the epidemic stage in the German armies of the west and the appearance of cholera among the Austrian troops in the east is causing anxiety. We had, of course, supposed that pestilences, such as accompanied some of the wars of the past, had been rendered impossible by medical progress. To scientific Germany we looked for new records in military sanitation.

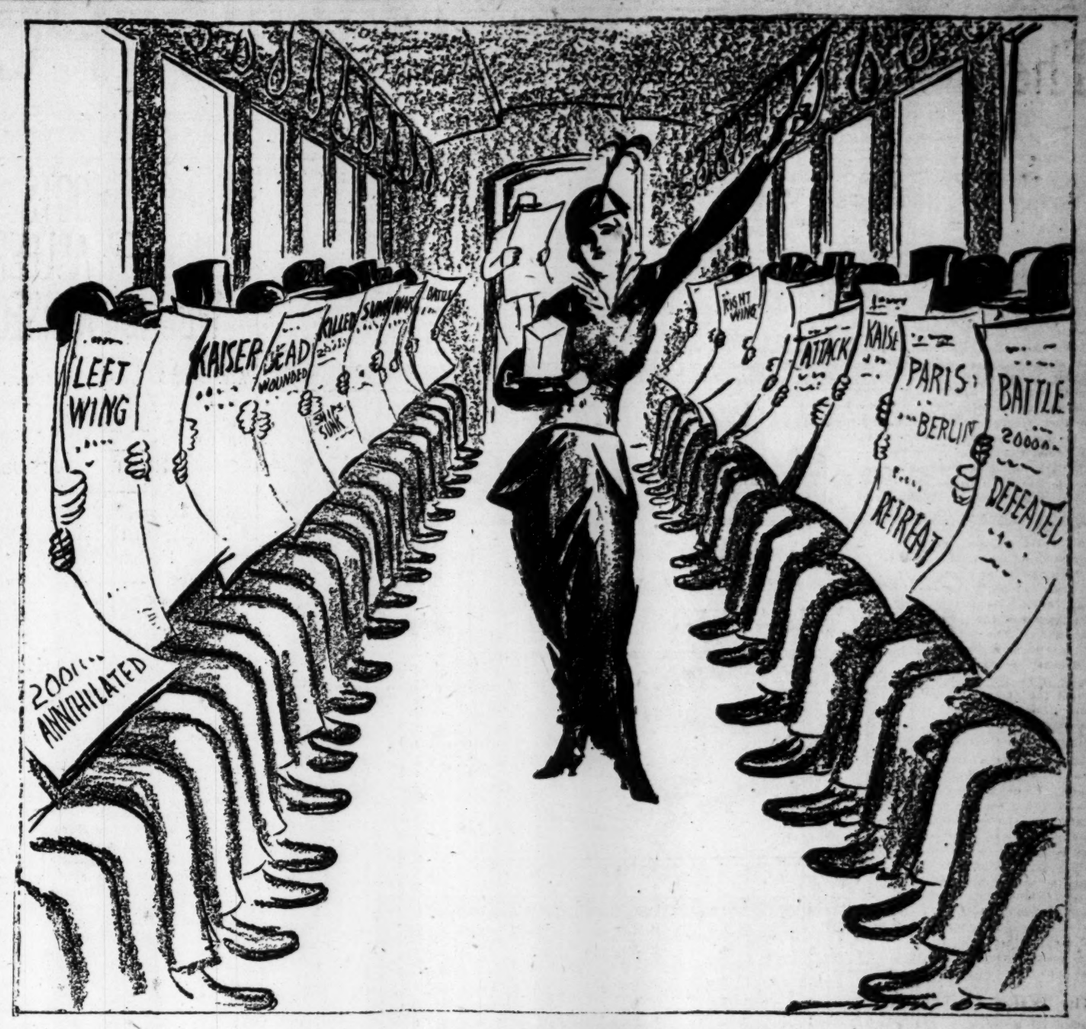

But then, we had supposed that war itself had been rendered impossible by mankind's general progress. Consequences as unlooked for as the beginning of the war was unbelievable may be in store for us. The conditions with which sanitary science would have to deal when millions of men are under arms were never dreamed of in the wildest flights of speculative discussion.

Our amazement when an era of peace triumphs was followed by war will leave us little capacity for amazement, if war is followed by pestilence and pestilence is followed by famine.

Color and Mentality.

From the New York Sun.

Color, indeed, especially flowers, has an extraordinary effect on the mental condition. The sight of crimson, pink and amethyst rhododendrons growing in the open air has a curiously uplifting and joyous effect.

JUST A MINUTE.

OCTOBER.

Though October has always been called the most beautiful month of the year, it was strangely enough the cause of one of the great wars of history. It was called by the Slavs the Yellow Month, from the falling leaves, and by the Anglo-Saxons Winter Fyllith, meaning the approach of Winter with the full moon. This infuriated the Romans, who had named it October from the Latin octo (eight), and had subsequently made it the tenth month in order that there might be apples to bob on Halloween. The result of their indignation was a race war in which the Latins under Numa Pompilius were arrayed against almost all the rest of Europe. The allies were defeated, and all their calendars were burned at a big celebration and bonfire on the Roman Compagna.

It was on the 12th of October that Columbus discovered America. Weary of war and the quarrels of kings, this intrepid Italian manned three caravels and set out to discover a place where people could live in peace. The sea had never been crossed, and it contained a great many perils; but every time he and his men thought of turning back their resolve was renewed by the rumble of cannon in their rear, and they so came to San Salvador in this month of the year. Except for the probable necessity of killing the Indians who already inhabited the new land, it seemed satisfactory, and Columbus returned and so reported. The rush for Plymouth Rock and other promising fields for colonization set in at once, and it has never stopped.

The eager calf will sniff the air
And show us what is new to dance.
And in the offing everywhere
The hosts of Autumn will advance.
The wild goose going down the sky
Will signal ranges to the frost;
The dread mosquito, come to die,
Will sell its life at awful cost.
The corn and other friends of man
Will chase the tyrant Hunger past,
The brave cove oyster in the can
Will sound a military blast,
The bittern will exceed the roar
Of any cannon made by Krupp,
And tins of soup, hurled through the door,
Will blow the soda fountain up.

Across the peaceful seas of night the Hunter's Moon will sail serene, nor anyone shall dynamite that pretty cruiser from the scene. There is no war where man is not—it is original with him. All else except this bloody spot is fairer than the cherubim. The gentle art of shedding blood is not at home among the stars. One cannot even hear the thud of battle on the planet Mars. The days are filled with joy and peace; the nights are beautiful with song. There are no armies and police, nor is there any matter wrong. Our earth monopolizes that; they have to look to see it here. They never have a royal spat beyond our own forbidding sphere. We take the cake for acting so of all the worlds around the sun, and if the rest could make the throw they'd like to hit us with the bun.

At any rate, the verdant glade will turn a bright and cheery red, and wild duck dinners will parade above the eager hunter's head. The mothball, driven from the fur, will rally round the summer shirt; the bullfrog, stopping to demur, will show us how to shovel dirt. The new school ma'am will make the bold, unconquered bully bawl for mush, the cow will shiver with the cold and don a thicker set of plush; the farmer, bringing in his hogs, will leave us 'n a limousine; the candidate in homely togs will tell what keeps us poor and lean; the haze of autumn will complete the filmy glory of the day; the quail will wake us with the sweet, shrill temper of his roundelay; the gold leaves, glowing as they turn, will render beautiful the air, and pickled pig's feet will return to glorify the bill of fare.

There is no other season quite
So beautiful as that ahead,
When all the world is frosty white
As day comes bounding from his bed.
The thought of cider is enough
To make a poet seize his lyre;
The hickory, turned gold and buff,
Is all that beauty could desire.
The smell of cracklings on the breeze
Will make a rosebush hide its face,
The wistful beauty of the trees
Will soothe and charm us for a space.
The county fair will fill the sky
With aviators and balloons,
And night will know the hue and cry
Or dogs and hunters after coons.

Indian Summer is so-called from the fact that it was then the Indians always went on the warpath, and this is almost equally true of white men. There will probably be very few quiet spots on the globe during the month, and with Europe going it full tilt on one side of us, Mexico raging along the south border and the Japs scourging the Pacific, we will do well to keep out of it ourselves. Congress will probably adjourn about the 15th, though one cannot tell about Congress these days, when something breaks out almost every minute. Some of the Congressmen, now the rivers and harbors bill has been zeppelined, don't much care to go home at all. The moon will be full on the 4th. The 15th will be an anxious day for all of the Kings engaging in the European war, for it was on that day in 1815 that Napoleon arrived at the Isle of St. Helena, there to spend the rest of his life. October's birthstone is the opal, which means hope; but people born in October are very strong characters and do their own hoping. Theodore Roosevelt is a good example. He was born on the 27th, under the influence of Scorpio, the eighth sign of the zodiac. Scorpio people have great endurance and usually continue to run for office after people have quit paying any attention to them. The first 22 days of the month are under the influence of Libra, the seventh sign. Libra people are very conservative, and are not saying what they think of our Mexican policy yet. October 13th will be the anniversary of the birth of the United States navy, which looks as if it would have to be born again in the light of what is proving effective in sea fighting abroad. Hallowe'en will recur on the 31st.

Then sweet November will return,
With Winter's scouts to guide her,
And we shall turn from war's concern
To fixing apple cider.

THE COTTON CROP.

A St. Louisan who has just returned from Memphis says the buy-a-bale-of-cotton movement is quite exciting in that city. There are bales of cotton stacked in front of the stores, and such placards as "We Bought This," "Have You Bought Yours?" "Here Is My Bale," etc., greet one all along the main street of the city.

Some efforts have been made to make it appear that the cotton crop is like any other crop, but they have been futile. The cotton crop is not like any other crop. That diversity of crops which keeps body and soul together in this northern country when the corn fails or the wheat is devoured by Hessian flies, is not true of the South. It comes tremendously near being a one-crop section, and when that one crop is deprived of a market the South is hard hit.

Pevely Sadders Shows Which Way Victory Seems to Lean.

By Lewis B. Ely.

Pevely Sadders today merely indicates by his previously announced wig-wag system that the allies are having a shade the better of the argument. Otherwise, our European war umpire has nothing to say that is worth printing. An umpire is only human, like other people. There are times when he just enjoys looking on and saying nothing.

Anyway, the less a military expert says, the less he will have to take back.

I. A. L.—City ordinances prohibit the making of fires in streets, alleys, lots or other public places unless they are contained in a receptacle.

C. A. I.—Whether administration upon an estate is necessary depends upon circumstances of the particular estate; it may or may not be.

F. S.—The lapse of 50 years, through all of which time you slept upon your claim, has barred the possibility of a successful suit to recover the same.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

L. "F. O. R. D." is a fake.

ONESIME.—Belfort was taken by the Germans in the war of 1870. After the war it was restored to the French.

NO SIG.—To gain weight, eat fats, oils, sweets, oatmeal, peas, beans—all starchy foods. Exercise all muscles sufficiently.

S. V. M.—Probably the best way to remove powder scar is by surgery. You might try the Skin and Cancer Hospital.

A. J. J.—You might try peroxide for raincoat inkstain. Lay in sun. Remove paint from glass by rubbing with edge of a cent.

O. B.—The only automobile sold in St. Louis with left drive and left control is the Ford. One or two others, not sold here, have the left control but we have not their names.

ROSENBERG.—Italy has agreed to pay annually to the Ottoman public debt a sum equal to the average revenues for 3 years preceding the war received by the public debt from Tripoli and Cyrenaica—not less than $400,000.

J. M.—A tank has four pipes leading into it. Pipe No. 1 fills it in 1 hour, No. 2 in 2 hours, No. 3 in 3 hours, No. 4 in 4 hours. If these pipes run at the same time it will take 38 4-5 minutes to fill the tank.

GRANITE.—Shots from a 20-gauge shotgun penetrate an object to the same depth as shots from a 10-gauge shotgun at a distance of 40 yards, assuming that each gun is loaded with the same size shot, and loaded in proportion to the gauge of the gun.

N. B. C.—In Russia and Austria royal descendants are archdukes, dukes, duchesses. In Great Britain they are princes, princesses. Descendants of prince or princess who marries a person of no royal blood do not take the princely title.

J. T. K.—Nancy was the seat of the Dukes of Lorraine down to 1766, when it came to France. In 870 the Lorraine region was partitioned between Louis the German and Charles the Bald, King of the West Franks. Soon after 895 Lorraine passed to Louis the Child, King of Germany.

WINEGARETTE.—Emperor of Japan, Yoshihito. Though he has never traveled he is remarkably enlightened. As a small boy he was sent away to school, where he was treated in much the same way as his companions. He is fond of athletics, is a fine long-distance walker and is something of a wrestler. Japan is an empire of nearly 4000 islands.

L. L. D.—States having local option: Alabama, Arizona, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin. Prohibition states: Arkansas, Georgia, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia.

O. D.—Rabbit skin cured will not be durable, as fur soon wears off. Stretch pelt and nail on board, fur side inside, then rub with salt, working it into every inch of surface. Keep the skin in the sun during the day and place in a dry place at night. Rub salt in each day for a week, then rub with powdered alum until skin is soft and pliable. It will require about two or three weeks' tanning to render it perfect.

W. A. B.—Perhaps you were answered hastily and in "sudden heat." Your query was: "If a bucket is 7 9-13 inches in diameter at the bottom, 9 2-3 inches at the top and 12 1-14 inches deep, and after a cloudburst is found to contain 11 33-67 inches of water, what was the amount of rainfall; also how much rain would have fallen if the sides of the bucket had been straight?" A kindly expert of the Weather Bureau who tackled your problem says of it: "The highly improbable fractions used in stating the problem have been changed to simpler values, to save time, and it is found the amount of rain was 9.2 inches. The last sentence of the question cannot be answered, as the shape of the bucket has no bearing on the amount of rain that fell."

DESCENDANT.—Thomas C. Fletcher was not Governor of Missouri until 1864. First territorial Governor, Gen. James Wilkinson; first Governor of the State, Alexander McNair of St. Louis. The Drake Constitution, adopted in 1865 was the distinguishing feature of Fletcher's administration. Under its test oath thousands of loyal Democrats were deprived of the right to vote and many professional men, including ministers and priests, were denied the right to practice their vocations because of its retroactive effect. This feature was finally declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States in the celebrated case of Father Cummings. Sorry we haven't the other information you ask.

The Road to Camelot

An April Fool Story, Bearing More or Less Tragic Phases.

By F. RONEY WEIR.

HER brother George called her "The Lady of Shalott," but the name was a misnomer, because she could not take "three paces thro' the room," but must just sit weaving her webs of red and white and pink shawls: the pink for Cousin Emmeline with the tender brown eyes, the red for Aunt Sarah with her gypsy skin and sallow cheeks, the white for grandma. But Brother George said The Lady might only watch other lovers moving down to Camelot, and the name fitted. So he rigged a light table that she could pull across her lap and rest her elbows upon when she held her field glasses and watched passers-by on the road.

It was surprising how much of life one could glimpse on a country road connecting two sizable towns.

This particular morning The Lady was entirely alone. Business or pleasure had taken every other member of the family out of the house, and the first to return, as The Lady knew, would be Tilly, the maid, at 3 o'clock.

Brother George had placed her chair back from the window that she might avoid the glare of the sun on the river just across the road, yet near enough to command a fine stretch of highway through the field glasses.

Away to the west she saw a little old man coming, bobbing along at a rapid pace. When he was near enough, The Lady could see that he was bent and stiff, and rheumatic; that his coat was shabby, his hat battered and gray. But he seemed to be walking on springs.

The Lady of Shallot was philosophising on the unreasonableness of happiness—fleeing from those who had lovers and automobiles, and abiding at times with the feeble and the aged, when just in front of her gate the old traveler met an acquaintance. Then The Lady was let into the tremendous secret.

The Wallet Fairly Bulged.

FROM an inside pocket the old man took out a bloated wallet. It was not the accustomed state of this purse, such a musty, fusty, ancient thing as it was, used to hovering about 75 cents, or, at most, a dollar and a half at a time. Now it fairly bulged. Her field glasses made visible to The Lady the trembling joy in the withered old fingers that unclasped and displayed the contents, then strapped and buckled it snugly and replaced it in an inside pocket of his coat.

The friend showed delighted surprise. He asked questions. The old man explained. He measured off height, length, breadth, depth. He was certainly going to build a house with the money in the fat pocketbook. The Lady could discern not only the sloping roof of the house, but the garden also, with a young apple tree, a row of currant bushes, and a blackberry wine on the fence.

The sun was fiercely warm, as it is apt to be in the first spring days. It was so warm that the old man took off his coat and hung it over his arm, as the two separated.

Then The Lady of Shalott thought she saw a pitiful sight. She could not be sure, but it seemed to her as if the fat pocketbook slipped from the inverted coat pocket to the ground, while the old man trudged joyfully out of sight.

She hoped she had been mistaken; she could not bear to think of the expression on that wrinkled old face when its owner should discover his loss.

A man drove by in a motor car, but he whirled along with his eyes fastened on the road. He was exceeding the speed limit, and entirely absorbed in the pleasure of breaking the law. Two men came up from Camelot—or rather, two beings who thought they were men, or hoped to be, as The Lady discerned through her glasses. They were very young, but they were tall for their age, and they smoked cigarettes. They were on the pocketbook side of the road. They were swaggering along with their hands in their pockets. The Lady hoped they would not find the wallet. They did not look like boys who were trustworthy.

The Boys Laughed at It.

THE boys saw the wallet; they stopped, they bent, they straightened up and hee-hawed like donkeys. They looked up at The Lady's window, and grinned mockingly. Then one of them raised a toe and the wallet flopped through the air like a wounded chicked.

It fell just in front of The Lady's gate. The two who thought they were men—or hoped to be—passed on, smoking their cigarettes.

If it would only rain! But it was such a perfectly dazzling day that everybody would go to, or come from Camelot.

At noon the school children began to swarm past. There was no longer room for hope. Children have eyes like ferrets; they see everything.

They saw the wallet—a half dozen at once. One little girl picked it up, but her older sister slapped it out of her hands and scolded her roundly for touching it. She brushed off the little girl's pinafore, boxed her ears, and sent her forward wailing.

One group of boys footballed it into the road, another sent it skidding out of range of the field glasses.

The Lady settled back in despair. It had gone beyond the ken of her friendly eyes. Now that it was out of her sight she tried to thrust it from her thoughts. She turned to her web, but wooden needles and white wool were no pancea for her excited mind.

Suddenly, "Tirra Lirra by the river," came Sedley's puppy, from three farms below. In his mouth he bore the begrimed wallet.

Being a little, mud-colored puppy, he was careful to settle with his quarry in the very middle of the path of the speed-exceeders. Here he held the wallet between his forepaws and began to chew the corner with the ecstatic expression of a gourmet tasting a new delicacy.

Oh, but it was terrible to be The Lady of Shalott and obliged to sit helpless while a puppy ate up a house and garden!

She called as loudly as she could; she screamed. In desperation she threw the field glasses straight through the window. She heard them clatter on the ground below.

The puppy heard, too. He cocked one dust-colored ear, turned a round, innocent eye upward a moment—then turned to his chewing again.

She Sees the Owner Again.

SUDDENLY The Lady saw the bent figure of the owner of the wallet come opposite the gate. He was without his cane and coat. He was stumbling along in a dazed, miserable, ineffectual haste, all the hope and happiness gone from him. Like the lawbreakers, his eyes were bent upon the path he himself was traveling, the path he had traversed with hope so short a time before. A mud-colored puppy in the middle of the road was, to him, a mud-colored puppy, and it was nothing more.

If only she could put her mouth close to the hole in the window she might make him hear!

"She left the web, she left the loom, she made three paces through the room." She grasped the ledge of the window sill with clutching fingers, and drew herself up until her mouth came opposite the hole in the glass; then she shouted desperately.

The old man turned, caught sight of the puppy, recognized the article upon which it was feasting, and made a dive for it. Up jumped the puppy, grabbed the wallet, and set out for home, three farms below, a dirty, wabbling streak in the middle of the road, the old man hot on his trail—but a long way behind.

"I am half sick of shadows," murmured The Lady of Shalott as her hold weakened on the sill and she rolled on the floor.

The next she knew, everybody was home; her father and mother and brother George and sister Alice and Tilly, the maid. There was a combined odor of camphor, arnica, smelling salts, and alcohol in the air, and someone was saying the doctor had come.

"How did you get away over under the window?" was the universal question they asked when they realized that she was awake once more and could answer them.

"I walked!" she declared triumphantly. "I made three paces through the room;" and what I did once I know a can do again. Stand aside and let me try!"

She did it again, and it seemed too good to be true.

"But what I can't understand," she gasped, after her second successful trial, "is why no one carried off the wallet," and she told the whole story.

"You little goose lady," gibed brother George, "don't you remember it is the first day of April?"

Man Who Wrote "What Is Love?" Answers:

"It Is Desire Tempered by Reverence"

Author of "The Lure" Declares Fetich of the Engagement Ring Should End, and Only Faintly Advocates Mental Congeniality as a Requisite.

What Is Love?

"IT is the star to every wandering bark," wrote Shakspeare, yet that beautiful answer didn't settle the question for women. Every woman puts it to herself, sooner or later. I doubt if every man is so curious. Men have a naive way of taking for granted their emotion or lack of emotion, without any special gratitude or puzzlement. That is why women will be most interested in George Scarborough's new comedy, "What Is Love?" In it an ungrammatical little nurse-maid, a white-haired matron and radiant young wife and mother all tell of their personal experiments in the laboratory of Cupid, and the heroine works out her formula before our very eyes.

Mr. Scarborough is the author of "The Lure," and "At Bay," the two plays talked about so much last year in New York and elsewhere.

At the time "The Lure" was being so soundly denounced, Mr. Scarborough, who is a graduate of the University of Texas, and one of the highest-minded of young fellows, wrote a classmate here in St. Louis: "Funny thing, this 'Lure thing' I've done; it's not a bit like me, as you know, but to get New York's ear you have to 'scream' into it, and, deliberately, I chose to do my 'screaming' with 'The Lure.' The next things I do are going to be worth while. Watch and wait for them."

And now Mr. Scarborough has written "What Is Love?" From all accounts is going to meet with instant success.

Speaking of the new play which Mr. Scarborough in his analysis of its themes pleases to call love an emotional apple toddy, he says:

"The best definition I can give of love is to call it desire tempered with reverence. It's the kiss on the brow and the kiss on the lips—neither one lacking.

"There must be physical magnetism in real love. That belongs to nature's plan. But that alone is not love, even as respectful tenderness alone is not love. The two must combine in the successful love-match.

"Love is the only legitimate reason for marriage. The love-match has been one of America's great contributions to civilization. Even in England considerations of money and property enter largely into the question of matrimony, while on the Continent everything is arranged by the parents and the young people do not see each other alone until after the wedding.

"A girl marries without love. Then what happens? Along comes a man not so rich as her husband, perhaps not so good-looking, but who has in him something which arouses the dormant desire in her. It's like the meeting of positively and negatively charged poles of electricity. Unless the woman has a wonderful fund of self-control she is swept away.

"The girl who marries a man without loving him is preparing a hell for herself, the bitterest unhappiness a human being can know. With love married life is heaven.

"Why don't we teach our girls to know love when it comes to them, to distinguish it from the imitations?" he demands. "It's the most important thing that will ever happen to them. And we let them play along and read romantic novels and flirt with the high school boys, getting all sorts of misinformation about love and nothing clear, nothing which will help them to understand themselves.

"Even after a girl has become engaged, she must attend to so many parties and presents and clothes she has hardly a moment to think of what life will really be with the man of her choice.

"And many a bride-to-be has cried her heart out all alone in her room the night before her wedding day.

"At least, let us outgrow the fetich of the engagement ring. If a girl promises to become a man's wife and later finds out that she doesn't love him, she has no right not to break her engagement. Disgrace cannot attach to such a rupture. The man himself should be thankful that the mistake has been discovered before marriage instead of after.

"I believe in love at first sight. Yet some believe that love depends somewhat on mental comradeship and there must be time to find all this out. On the other hand, I am not always sure that congeniality is a part of love. I certainly believe that love at first sight exists. Perhaps it is true that the ideal love ranges over the three planes, mental, spiritual and physical. But I doubt if more than two of these belong to the average love."

Just here, it is probable that certain modern women will disagree with Mr. Scarborough's conception of what love is. It's all very well to have a profound respect for one's husband and to enjoy kissing him, but a brain wants a brain-mate.

He believes that practical considerations should be ignored in marriage.

"The woman who marries for a home," he says, "or to avoid spinsterhood, or to escape loneliness is sure to regret it. The question a girl should ask herself is not 'Can I be happy with this man?' but 'Can I be happy without him?'

"I believe that young people should fall in love and marry early. If a man loves a woman in his own walk of life he will be able to take care of her. She will be an incentive to spur him on. As for the girl, if she cares she will be willing to begin small and to live economically. If they have the right sort of love for each other their whole lives will be sweetened and enriched."

The Chinese Government, which owns the country's telegraph system, has extended it until more than 36,000 miles of land area and about 1000 miles of cables are now in use.

Nothing New in Stage Villainy

IN these days when the villain of various types has become, when not actually the hero, at least the "exciting force" of numberless dramas, we are quick to conclude that, because we call them crook plays and "crook" is a word of more or less modern coinage, the drama of crime is for that reason absolutely new. Not so. In all epochs of the English playhouse, the criminal and his lawless though consummate accomplishments have proved fruitful material for the ever-ready playwright.

In fact, far back in the days before the playhouse itself had yet been even foreshadowed, the thief was thought fit subject for the drama. And when, in the early Middle Ages, English comedy was born, whom do we find presiding at the birth but that calm and sly, impassive product of environment, the ingratiating scoundrel whom our own playwrights have but recently discovered anew and offered as a novelty. The "Second Shepherds' Play" of the Towneley cycle of miracle plays, dating from the second half of the fifteenth century, contains the first germ of English comedy.

Crime provided that germ. Mak, the wily, sheep-stealing villain of this little religious play, was the very first captivating crook, the first romantic rogue in the English drama. He first illustrated for the stage, as does the criminal in the drama of today, Belza's assertion that "men are neither good nor bad." A waggish, rascality-loving, clever youth he was, who, like Jackson Ives in "Ready Money," took an honest workman's pride in a dishonest calling.—Lippincott's.

Poor Mr. Rabbit and Sly Mr. Fox

Sandman story explaining that friendship to be the real sort must be based upon sincerity and unselfishness.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

ONE day when Mr. Rabbit was gathering the last of his late vegetables from his garden Mr. Fox looked over his fence.

"Good morning, friend Rabbit," he said; "what fine vegetables you have; you certainly are a lucky fellow to have a friend like me to appreciate them, and I will take the largest of them home with me, as I am larger than you and need more to eat."

Mr. Rabbit picked out the largest and gave them to Mr. Fox. "Yes, friendship is a great thing," he remarked; "I feel that I am greatly blessed to be able to make my friends happy."

Later in the winter, when it grew colder, Mr. Fox said: "I really must borrow Mr. Rabbit's stove. I know he will be glad to lend it to me."

He ran to Mr. Rabbit's and knocked at the door. "Good morning," he said, "I have come to borrow your stove. You can roll up in some straw in a corner."

"Yes, indeed," said Mr. Rabbit, for he thought Mr. Fox the best friend he ever had because he borrowed so much. "If he did not think so much of me," he said, "he would borrow from someone else."

So Mr. Fox carried off Mr. Rabbit's stove, and after a while he borrowed all his food, so that when the springtime came he had left Mr. Rabbit with hardly enough food to keep from starving.

One morning Mr. Fox saw him sitting in front of his door, but he did not need anything, so he did not stop. "Mr. Rabbit looks so thin I am sure he'd rather I would not stop. He surely will take it as a kindness if I keep away until he has grown fat again."

Mr. Rabbit wondered why his friend did not come to see him, now that the days were nice and warm, and he remarked to the owl, who lived in the tree above his home, that he had not seen his friend Mr. Fox in a long time.

"You will see him again next winter," said the owl; "he will want something then."

"Yes, Mr. Fox is a great friend of mine," said Mr. Rabbit, "and I lent him many things. He thought more of me than anyone, and that was why he came. Friendship is the greatest thing in the world."

"You are right," said the owl, "but it strikes me that the friendship between you two was one-sided; you befriended Mr. Fox, but how did he show his friendship for you?"

"By allowing me to befriend him," replied Mr. Rabbit. "The joy of having a friend you can help and make happy is a great blessing, I can assure you, Mr. Owl."

"I quite agree with you on that point," replied Mr. Owl; "but the friend who takes all you have and then leaves you to starve cannot appreciate such friendship as you speak of. Think that over, Mr. Rabbit," said the owl as he flew away.

SOME NEW RECIPES.

Hot Gingerbread With Cream.—Cream together, ½ cup butter, ½ cup sugar, add beaten egg, ½ cup sour milk, 1 cup molasses. Prepare 2 cups flour with 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon ginger, and beat in gradually. Bake in moderate oven and serve with whipped cream. cup fine granulated sugar, 2-3 cup butter, 1 heaping cup flour, 4 eggs, pinch saleratus, cream butter and sugar together, separate the eggs and add the yolks beaten first, then the flour and saleratus sifted, and lastly the stiffly beaten whites, bake in a greased square tin in a moderate oven for 40 minutes.

Beet Salad.—Slice cold boiled beets cut into strips, line a salad bowl with white crisp lettuce; heap the beets in the center and pour mayonnaise dressing over them just before it goes to the table, or you can pass the dressing with the salad in an ice cold pitcher or a pretty bowl with a ladle in it.

Fried Chicken With Tomato Sauce.—Cut up a chicken, put it into a saucepan with two slices of bacon, a sliced onion with two sliced tomatoes, add water to cover and simmer until tender, when half done, add ½ cup of rice; when the rice is tender, take out the pieces of chicken, arrange them on a platter and pour the gravy over them.

Banana Cream.—Cover the bottom of a plain mold lightly with lemon gelatin and lay in slices of bananas. When cold add a layer made by beating lightly together one cupful each of the cooled gelatin and cream, adding half a cupful of sugar and two bananas which have been pressed through a sieve. When firm, pour in again a thin layer of the lemon gelatin, having first placed slices of banana around the upper edge of the mold. When set, unmold and serve with custard sauce.

Grape Cordial—One quart grape juice, 1¼ pounds of white sugar (loaf is best), an even tablespoonful of cinnamon and simmer half an hour. Seal white hot. Will keep years. This is an excellent tonic for the stomach. Dose, a tablespoonful several times a day, or when tired take a teaspoonful.

How to Gain Weight A Pound a Day

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay-there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying: First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and most any thin man or woman can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And, best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten into rich, ripe fat-producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepares it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat-producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. Judge & Dolph, Weipert Drug Co., Rabotaau, Wolf-Wilson, Johnson-Enderle-Pauley Drug Co., 5 stores, and other leading druggists in St. Louis and vicinity sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back.—ADV.

Dr. Lorand, the great Carlsbad authority, has recently established by investigation—that most kinds of fish contain more phosphorous than most kinds of meat, and all fish contains more phosphorus than is found in vegetables.

Fish is a brain food; it replaces the brain phosphorus consumed in mental labor.

POLICEMAN HIT IN EYE

Sergt. Caudle Beats Assailant With Night Stick.

Police Sergeant William R. Caudle of the Carr Street District heard several pistol shots about 2 o'clock this morning and saw Mrs. Bessie Lively, 24 years old, run from her home at 815 North Twenty-first street.

Entering the house, he found Mrs. Lively's husband, Joseph Lively, hiding a revolver beneath the bed. When he tried to arrest Lively the latter hit him in the eye. Caudle used his nightstick and both he and his prisoner had to go to the dispensary for treatment. Mrs. Lively would not say her husband had shot at her, but he was held.

4215 BALES OF COTTON ORDERED FROM COMMITTEE

Eastern Concerns Show Lively Interest in Plan to Help the South.

Orders for 13 bales of cotton were received today by the Buy-a-Bale Committee of the Business Men's League, bringing the total up to 4215 bales. Today's orders were from the following: Philip B. Fouke, Funsten Bros. & Co., one bale; William Carroll & Co., New York City, one bale; P. H. Woods, M. W. Warren Coke Co., one bale; Theophilus Conzelman, Crunden-Martin Woodenware Co., one bale; The Bamberger-Reinthal Co., Cleveland, O., three bales; The Danbury Co., Danbury, Conn., five bales; W. K. Bixby, one bale.

Eastern Firms Buy.

J. N. Rarick, secretary and treasurer of the Hoyle & Rarick Clothing Co., 810 North Broadway, sent letters last week to 14 Eastern manufacturers asking them to buy a bale of cotton. All but two or three have responded, inclosing a check for a bale. These two or three have explained that they had already made purchases through other channels. Rarick makes the suggestion that all St. Louis firms that have relations with Eastern manufacturers ask them to buy a bale.

The Martin Bros. Piano Co. of Springfield, Mo., ordered a bale shipped there to be placed on exhibition at the Springfield Club, to boost the movement.

Buys Bale as Souvenir.

W. G. Heberhart of Madison, Ind., passing through the city from the Pacific Coast, bought a bale as a souvenir, as he expressed it, and also to help a good cause. A check for $50 was received from Bennett Raymond, assistant superintendent of the Edgar Zinc Co. of Cherryvale, Kan.

The committee will buy no cotton from speculators. As far as possible the purchases will be made from the actual growers.

The following orders were received yesterday: The National Ammonia Co., 10 bales; W. K. Stanard, Stanard-Tilton Milling Co., 1; Buffalo Specialty Co., 1, F. Berg & Co., Orange Valley, N. J., 5; Lawrence & Parkhurst, San Francisco, Cal., 1; Bridgeport Screw Co., Bridgeport, Conn., 1; Abe N. Adelson, New York, 1; R. B. Puckett, 1; George B. Burnett, New York, 2; H. W. Soper, 1; Marquard Forster Jr., 1; Julius Pitzman, 1.

PROPOSED LUMBER RATE INCREASE IS SUSPENDED

Interstate Commerce Commission Notifies Business Men's League of Action.

The Traffic Bureau of the Business Men's League was notified today that the Interstate Commerce Commission had suspended until Jan. 28 the increase in lumber rates which the railroads intended to put into effect Oct. 1. The proposed increase was about 1 cent a hundred pounds on all classes of lumber shipments.

The league filed a petition with the Commission asking that the rates be suspended. The railroads will now have to go before the Commission and seek to justify the increase.

5 WESTERN ROADS REBEL AGAINST BRIDGE ARBITRARY

Interstate Commission Is Asked for Relief From Transfer Burden on Through Freight.

Five Western railroads have rebelled against the payment of the Terminal Railroad Association's bridge arbitrary of 2 cents a hundred pounds on through freight and have made complaints to the Interstate Commerce Commission for relief from burdens imposed upon them by the Eastern railroads, which control the Terminal. The Western railroads complain that they are forced to pay the bridge arbitrary on all through freight, and that the 11 East Side roads refuse to pay any part of the transfer charges.

The controversy between the Eastern and the Western lines has approached a state where the existence of the Terminal Railroad Association is threatened. It is also probable, as a result of the fight, that the Eastern lines will cancel their St. Louis rates, under which they absorb the bridge arbitrary on St. Louis freight.

Western Lines' Demands.

The Western lines are demanding that the Terminal Railroad Association, jointly owned by 15 railroads, be operated as a common terminal and switching facility, and that all the proprietary lines contribute equally to its support.

Under the present arrangement the Western railroads are compelled to pay charges of $5 or more on every car of through freight which they handle, both eastbound and westbound. The Western lines complain that while the Eastern roads are making St. Louis rates on St. Louis business they are discriminating against Western railroads by refusing to make St. Louis rates on througt business.

A western railroad bringing a car load of freight into St. Louis from Denver is compelled to deliver the car to the connecting line in East St. Louis, paying the Terminal's transfer charge. Also the western roads receiving freight from the eastern lines are compelled to accept the cars in East St. Louis and pay also for the Terminal's charges.

Burdens of more than $1,000,000 a year are imposed upon the western lines by this arrangement, it is alleged.

Concessions Are Refused.

The freight traffic representatives of the different railroads had two meetings yesterday to try to settle the controversy. The eastern lines refused to grant any concessions to the western lines, and the western lines are taking steps to enforce their demand that the eastern lines pay at least one-half the transfer charges.

Commission Investigating.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is already investigating the situation brought about by this fight among the railroads. Special Examiner March of the commission was in St. Louis yesterday gathering information relative to the controversy.

The fight among the railroads is causing delay in shipment. Some cars offered to the Eastern railroads by the Western lines have been left standing in the yards. The Western railroads assert that this action on the part of the Eastern lines necessarily makes the public a factor in the controversy, because the public is made to suffer.

The Western lines say that all they are demanding is that the east side lines put St. Louis on the map, relative to through freight, the same as on freight originating here for the East or destined to St. Louis from the East.

East Controls the Terminal.

The Municipal Bridge and Terminals Commission, in 1906, induced the Eastern railroad to make a St. Louis rate, absorbing the bridge arbitrary on shipments originating outside of or destined to points beyond a 100-mile radius of St. Louis.

The Eastern lines have had these rates in effect since that time on purely St. Louis business, but the Western lines have had to pay the arbitrary on all through traffic which they received from or delivered to the Eastern roads.

The Eastern roads are in the majority in the directorate of the Terminal Association, and through their voting power control the policy of the organization.

ROBBED OF $200 ON TRAIN

Money Missing After New Acquaintance Leaves.

C. C. Buchanan of Barton, Fla., who is touring the country in the interest of the Tax Checking Bureau, which has headquarters at Barton, complained to the police today that on his way here from Montgomery, Ala., he was robbed of two $100 bills by a fellow traveler who struck up an acquaintance with him.

The man told him he was going to Salt Lake City, but decided to stop off at Henderson, Ky. After the man stopped off Buchanan missed his $200. The police telephoned a description of the man to Henderson.

TAILOR CUTS THROAT

Morris Doss Also Worried About Sisters in Austrian War Zone.

Morris Doss, 54 years old, of 5511 North Market street, a tailor, attempted to take his life by cutting his throat and the arteries of both arms at his home, yesterday afternoon. He is at the city hospital, in a serious condition.

Doss has a wife and four children. He had been ill and unable to work for several weeks. He said he also had been worrying because he had been unable to hear from two sisters who live in Lemberg, Austrian Poland, recently captured by the Russians.

Attempt to Blackmail J. J. Hill.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 29.—Charles Howell, 31 years old, claiming Glen Flora, Wis., as his home, is held by the local police for the Federal authorities. They say he has confessed that he prepared through a series of five letters to blackmail James J. Hill and the latter's son, Louis W. Hill, out of $50,000.

2-HOUR FIRE IN NEW YORK SUBWAY AFTER COLLISION

21 Persons Hurt in Underground, Surface and Elevated Car Accidents.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Two underground trains collided in the subway at 142d street and Lexington avenue at the rush hour this morning. Fire followed and for 10 blocks every manhole belched billows of black smoke. Firemen were more than two hours getting the fire under control. Four persons were hurt in the crash of the trains, the subway was blocked and tens of thousands of persons were delayed on their way to work. Persons crowded on the platforms at several underground stations until those nearest the rails were forced off and they walked along the tracks beween stations in perilous proximity to the deadly third rail.

Six persons were hurt in a collision of surface cars on a bridge over the Harlem River. One car then shot down an incline and collided with a third car, and eight more persons were hurt.

The rear car of an elevated train at another point caught fire, and in a panic which followed three women were hurt.

COURT HEARING COYNE'S CASE AGAINST BROTHERS

The suit of Michael J. Coyne of 1289A Hodiamont avenue to have his brothers, Christopher E. Coyne and W. Robert Coyne, placed under bonds to keep the peace, went to trial before a jury in Judge Taylor's court this afternoon.

According to lawyers in the case this is the first time a peace bond petition has been filed in the Circuit Court. They are usually heard by Justices.

PIANO PLAYER ARRESTED ON COMPLAINT OF GIRL

Gertrude Donahue Says Carleton Disappeared After She Gave Him $325.

Robert Carleton, a piano player, 20 years old, surrendered at police headquarters this morning after hearing detectives were searching for him. He was wanted in connection with a complaint made by Miss Gertrude Donahue, 18-year-old daughter of Richard Donahue of 3107 Locust street.

Miss Donahue told the police that Carleton last week obtained a marriage license to wed her and took her to the Aberdeen Hotel, Sixteenth and Market streets. She had previously given him $325, she said, with which he purchased an auto.

Last Saturday Carleton disappeared and yesterday Miss Donahue requested his arrest.

The case was laid before Assistant Circuit Attorney Baer, who requested an interview with Miss Donahue. She won the "ango championship" at a dance last season.

SEARS LEFT $25,000,000

He was 51 years old at his death.

EXPORTS FROM NEW YORK ARE ON THE UPTURN

Merchandise Shipments Last Month Were $3,200,000 Heavier Than a Year Ago.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Little that was new deevloped in the markets of the day; foreign exchange halted in its advance, and even the rise in the bid for the city 6 per cents was checked. All this meant nothing more than one of those familiar pauses of a market to take its bearings after definite movements in one direction or another. It might be imagined that the markets reflected the character of the war news—which, for its own part, reflected a situation in which nothing whatever seemed today to be happening, but which had about it a strong, though vague, suggestion of a really important turn in events, now close at hand.

Exports Are Heavy.

"A statement of considerable interest today was the showing of last week's merchandise exports from New York. The total was $20,000,000, which is $3,200,000 above 1913, and the largest sum total for the week in at least a decade past. It follows a similar increase over 1913 in the week preceding, and the striking fact about both weeks is that the wheat exports were not of the huge volume of a month ago, so that other merchandise must have chiefly made up the exceptional magnitude of the exports. This is the drift of things in the foreign trade movement, which will help the difficulties of foreign exchange.

Foreign Exchange Less Active

"The foreign exchange market was less active than yesterday, but quotations were only fractionally below those of yesterday, sight drafts on London selling at 4.99¼, as against 5.01 yesterday, and cable remittances 5.00½, against 5.02 yesterday.

"The market was not as active, but a large volume of business was handled, and the members of the $100,000,000 gold pool were actively at work trying to close up the details as soon as possible.

"It was evident that the banks of the five large cities were willing to give up more gold than their allotments called for, but that some difficulty had been experienced in getting definite action from some of the interior institutions. It is believed, however, that the pool will be fully organized by the last of the week, and that within a day or two the New York committee will begin to operate on a large scale in the foreign exchange market.

"Bankers in various cities were communicating with the leading financiers of this city, asking specific inforation as to the movement of exchange and the possibility of establishing the market upon a materially lower basis after the gold pool was formed.

"These inquiries excited considerable interest and were based on the theory that much depended upon the trend of exchange from now on. A great many bankers having large remittances to make to Europe in connection with early October maturities were trying to strengthen their foreign balances in preparation for the corporation payments which will have to be made.

"It was evident that some of these engagements had to do with the paying off of loans made here in July by various London banks. Most of these run for 90 days' periods and will have to be cared for when they come due next month.

Bond Prices React.

"The New York City notes reacted partially from the high level of prices touched yesterday, and it was apparent that some of the speculative holders had taken advantage of the sharp rise in the price of the three-year notes to sell out at a profit. The three-year notes sold today at 102⅝, as against a high level yesterday of 103¼, while the two-year issue touched 101¼, as against 101⅝. Some of the one-year notes changed hands at 100¼, which was about a half point down for the day. This decline was natural enough under the circumstances and represented nothing more than the liquidation which often follows a sharp rise in the price of a security which has just been allotted by public subscription.

"Some of the selling was evidently by banks which took the notes originally, under an agreement that they should not be resold until such time as the syndicate gave notice of its willingness to have them offered privately. The quarter rise in prices following the allotment of the notes no doubt influenced the bankers to permit the original buyers to sell the notes that they had taken under the terms of the 50-per-cent-withdrawal provision.

"The whole market has been helped, however, by the success of this loan, and the chances now are that from now on there will be other offerings of notes by various cities and states that have found it difficult, if not impossible, to interest any bankers in a long-term bond issue at this time.

"Some of the investment houses which have done little or no business since the closing of the Exchange, have been able to sell large blocks of the city notes to clients who could not be induced to buy any securities, no matter how high grade they were, under the old terms.

"This activity in New York City notes has indirectly helped all the really high-grade note issues, especially those which can be sold at prices which show an investment return of close to 6 per cent.

"It is clear that the banks of the large reserve cities will be called upon to finance the requirements of many cities and towns which have maturing note issues to pay off in the near future.

"Many such issues were sold last year and the year before, and although a great many of them will be renewed by their holders, the borrowers will have to have the protection of a banker's syndicate, just as New York City had to have in the case of the recent loan sold here."

Reported closing of the Dardanelles by Turkey advanced wheat prices over 1c early Tuesday. There was little of importance in the other market news. Later the market met selling pressure of an urgent nature and the advance was lost. The close was easy at a small fractional decline.

Corn futures were steady to a fraction higher, in sympathy with wheat and on light receipts. Oats were fractionally higher. Later prices weakened and final quotations showed fairly wide losses.

Broomhall's Liverpool cable said: "A better feeling prevailed at the opening here and prices were advanced ½d to 1d, with offers lighter. Supplies here are liberal and prospective arrivals are large and native offers are free, but there is liberal absorption and millers continue to take on a large scale. There are fewer American and Canadian offers and the spot market is firm, with an improved demand. Crop estimates from the Pacific Coast are bullish and Pacific Coast offers are light and sharply advanced. There was more disposition to support December with forward offers lighter.

"Corn opened ½d lower, with easier American cables. The undertone showed more steadiness during the later trading, with steadier feeling in spot and fewer offers.

"Wheat on passage is 30,904,000 bu; last week, 29,536,000; last year, 32,992,000. Corn today, 12,997,000 bu; last week, 11,866,000; last year, 29,206,000.

December wheat opened ⅝c up at $1.08, sold up to $1.09⅛@1.09⅜ bid, with a reaction to $1.09 asked. May started 1c up at $1.15½, gained to $1.16⅛ bid, with a setback to $1.08⅞. September was not quoted.

December corn opened ⅛c up at 68⅝c, sold at 69c, with a reaction to 68½c asked. May was unchanged on the first trade at 72½c, then lost to 72¼c asked.

December oats were ¼c up at 49c.

Minneapolis wheat cars totaled 543, against 521 and 388. Duluth 534, against 504 and 545. Winnipeg 1016, against 1273 and 1377. Minneapolis wheat stocks increased 725,000 bu for 3 days.

Broomhall cabled:

"Turkey—Advices received from official sources state that the Dardanelles have been closed to shipping for the time being. This will interfere with shipments of corn, as much has been arranged for. France—Heavy rain continues and the movement of native grain to market is slow. Stocks at accumulative centers, however, are ample.

"Russia—During the past few days weather over the important agricultural districts has been wet and cold, and this has interfered with the harvesting of spring crops and also delayed preparation of the new crop. In the eastern region of the winter belt seeding is progressing and in parts germination has commenced."

Crop Expert B. W. Snow wired:

"My reports are emphatic in their indication of heavy increase in the acreage of winter wheat. It is too early to put it in figures, but the increase promises to be one of the most pronounced changes in crop distribution that has ever been recorded. Rains at the end of August and since have put the ground in perfect shape for plowing and seeding, and the feeling that Europe's crop acreage next year must be materially reduced is the basis for the remarkable increase in area which is reported to me from every section of the winter wheat belt. Local returns of from 10 to 20 per cent increase in area are not at all infrequent, even in districts of heavy importance, while in localities where the area is ordinarily small the crop will be an important one next year."

Bradstreet's detailed showed:

Wheat—United States and east of Rockies, increase 8,445,000 bu; United States and west of Rockies, increase 788,000; Canada, increase 8,313,000; United States and Canada, increase 17,546,000; afloat and in Europe, increase 1,500,000; total increase 19,046,000.

Corn—United States and Canada, decrease 816,000 bu.

Oats—United States and Canada, increase 1,016,000.

Weekly weather crop report said:

"Summary of wheat and crop conditions in the corn and wheat region for the week during September 28:

"The season closes with fall work well advanced. Most of the corn crop has matured without injury from frost and cutting is progressing rapidly with fair yield. The soil continues in generally good condition for seeding of winter wheat. A large acreage is being sown and the early seeding is coming up nicely, but in some sections the seeding has been delayed. Pastures continue excellent."

Grain in store in Chicago—Wheat 4,625,000 bu, increase 794,000, last year 9,668,000; corn 2,097,000, decrease 845,000, last year 4,000,000; oats 9,736,000, decrease 898,000; last year 14,053,000. Contract stocks—Wheat 1,230,000, decrease 81,000; last year 5,396,000; corn 761,000, decrease 60,000, last year 1,839,000; oats 3,742,000, decrease 214,000, last year 5,713,000.

Clearances—Wheat, 574,000 bu; corn, 2000; oats, 573,000; flour, 38,000; wheat and flour, 745,000.

Chicago wheat cars Monday were 824, against 296 last week and 727 last year. Inspected Tuesday—Wheat, 317; corn, 148; oats, 328.

WHEAT PRICES IRREGULAR IN CHICAGO TRADE

Early Market Is Higher, but Final Figures Show Small Losses.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Wheat advanced sharply today in consequence of the reported closing of the Dardanelles. The market was also bullishly affected by receipts in the American spring crop belt falling off to well under the figures at the corresponding time a year ago. Commission houses almost unanimously took to the buying side and found offerings light. The start, which ranged from ⅞c to 1⅝c higher, was followed by a slight reaction, but then prices rose higher than before.

Corn nardened a little with wheat. Favorable weather for maturing the new crop, however, tended to prevent any decided bulge in quotations. After opening ⅛c off to a like advance, the market scored fractional gains.

Assertions that the Government of Greece was purchasing oats on a large scale made that cereal firm. Price changes, though, were small.

Provisions lacked support. An advance in the hog market was virtually ignored.

Cotton Prices Lowered.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 29.—The directors of the Cotton Exchange have reduced the price of Jan.-Feb. delivery to 5d, the change to take effect tomorrow.

LIVESTOCK.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Sept. 29.—Comparative receipts table:

	Today.	Week Ago.	Year Ago.
Cattle	7,500	7,000	9,000
Hogs	1,300	14,500	13,500
Sheep	750	2,500	4,000
Horses and mules	500	250	800

NATIVE CATTLE—Receipts today in this division totaled 5000 head, not a heavy run for this time of year. Quality showed the usual wide range, with finished beeves again quite scarce and in good demand. Market on medium to common cattle was slow throughout, with prices tending easier in most cases.

SOUTHERN CATTLE—The quarantine run today aggregated 2500 head, not a large supply. The proportion of steers among the offering was larger than of late, so the run carried much beef. Trade was generally steady, but in spots the market showed weakness.

HOGS—The market was well supplied, but still it opened on a 5c higher basis, but the close was not any better than the Monday trade. The top was back up to $9, while the bulk of the hogs went at $8.70@8.90. Good smooth hogs, 175 pounds and over, found ready sale at $8.85 and up, while the mixed and plain grades went at $8.25@8.80 and rough packers $7.85@8. Best grade of lights $8.60@8.90, fair $8.25@8.50. Best pigs $8.15@8.50, fair $7.40@8 and poor grades $6.50@7.35.

SHEEP—Best fat lambs were a shade higher and sheep steady. Best lambs sold at $7.75@8, sheep around $5, stockers and choppers $4@4.50 and bucks $4@4.25.

HORSES AND MULES.

As compared with previous years the horse market is on a mighty slow basis for this period of the year. A few army animals and Eastern types were the only sellers today.

The mule market was on a slow basis again today, and only a light offering of miners and sugar mules found outlet.

St. Joseph Livestock.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 29.—Hogs, receipts 6000; shippers' prices 5c to 10c lower than yesterday's packer market, packers bidding lower; top $8.50; bulk $8.05@8.50. Cattle, receipts 1600; steady to 10c lower; steers $6@10.25; cows and heifers $4.25@9.50; calves $6@10.50. Sheep receipts 10,000; slow; lambs $6.50@7.10.

YOU CAN SAVE MONEY BY WEARING W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES.

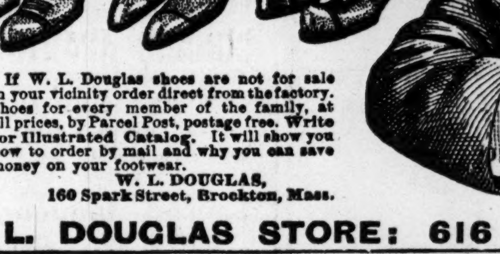

For 31 years W. L. Douglas has guaranteed the value of his shoes by having his name and the retail price stamped on the sole before the shoes leave the factory. This protects the wearer against high prices for inferior shoes of other makes. W. L. Douglas shoes are always worth what you pay for them. When you need shoes, call at any one of W. L. Douglas 80 stores located in the large cities and see for yourself the many styles and kinds of $3.50, $3.75, $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00 shoes in all leathers, sizes and widths.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes cannot be equalled for the price; for style, comfort and service they are just as good as other makes costing $4.00 to $5.00. Your attention is called especially to W. L. Douglas $4.00 and $4.50 shoes; a careful examination will convince you that they compare favorably with other makes costing $6.00 to $8.00, the only perceptible difference is the price.

If you could visit W. L. Douglas factory at Brockton, Mass., and see for yourself the high grade leathers used and how carefully W. L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they look better, fit better, hold their shape and wear longer than other makes for the price.

The Jarr Family

By ROY L. McCARDELL

Mr. Jarr Returns to Work Under Unfavorable Auspices

WHEN Mr. Jarr came to the office the first day after his vacation of course all those jolly dogs of fellow workers were overjoyed to see him.

"Look what the cat brought in!" cried Johnson, the cashier. "Now begin. 'Yes, we intended to go abroad this year, but on account of the war'—"

"Oh, don't kid the poor gink," said Jenkins, the bookkeeper; "he had no intention of going to Europe—how could he, even if he had the price, in two weeks? It can't be done in two weeks—the cattle boats take twelve days one way."

"But Mr. Jarr looks like he had been out in the weather," remarked Fritz, the shipping clerk, who wanted to keep in the good graces of everybody, now that business was bad in wholesale woolens, as well as other lines, and it behooved every man to appreciate a place on the payroll.

"That's barroom tan," said Johnson. "What does a cashier care? Even when there's no money to pay the hands it's the cashier's job to stand by and break the glad tidings.

"Some people have their nerve," remarked Jenkins, the bookkeeper, "exacting a vacation these times!"

"You'd better not try it, your absence wouldn't leave a ring in the water cooler," said Mr. Jarr surlily.

This retort courteous bid Mr. Jenkins pause. He murmured something about some guys not being able to take a joke and got busy pretending to check up his ledger.

So, with the atmosphere at least a little bit more genial Mr. Jarr put a large bunch of field daisies and goldenrod that he had brought from Uncle Henry's farm on top of his desk. Then he applied his key and lifted the wooden roller curtain and busied himself with his accumulated personal mail, making believe, by the fixed smile he wore while perusing the communications, that all the "please remits" were invitations to dine with the Duke of Manchester and luncheon with captains of industry who wished to woo him away from his present employer.

"I suppose he brought that bunch of vegetation for Molly, the typewriter," grumbled Johnson to Jenkins. "And that's a guy who will tell you how he loves his wife."

"It wouldn't be any harm bringing the girl some blooms, why I do it, and my wife knows I do it," replied Jenkins, "and I tell you my little place in East Malaria has the finest lilacs in spring and the finest roses in summer and"—

But he abruptly ended his praises of the floral wonders of his little place in the country when Mr. Jarr arose and crossed over to the boss' private office and put the big bunch of goldenrod and daisies on the boss' desk.

"You'd better tell him," cried Jenkins, again speaking first.

"I'll mind my own affairs and you'd better mind yours," cautioned Johnson. "Anyway, I've never believed in this social climbing through business connections. What right has he to make a play for the boss by floral tributes, anyway?"

Mr. Jarr was back at his desk when the boss entered and gave all hands a genial morning scowl. Then he entered his sanctum, only to bounce out roaring and screaming, "Who put these cussed things on my desk? It was done on purpose! I know it was!"

"Didn't you know the boss got hay fever while you were away, Mr. Jarr?" asked Johnson, the cashier, in affected surprise.

Bad for the Tramp.

WHEN Mr. Johnson returned home from the office the other evening he found his young wife in tears. "Why, Grace!" he cried in surprise. "What is the trouble, darling?"

"Oh, Ernest," she sobbed, "I baked a cake this morning and set it on the window sill and a tramp came along and stole it."

"Well, don't cry, dearest," said the husband consolingly. "One tramp less in the world doesn't matter."

Hints Are No Use.

I WANT to call your attention to the "Fashion Hints," said the man who was soliciting subscriptions.

"No use," replied the plain, emphatic woman. "Fashions have gotten to where hints won't do any good. You might as well start in callin' for the police."

"CHECKING OR ARRESTING THE HEART'S ACTION."—Webster

His First Offense.

IN a certain neighborhood there resided an honest farmer who was not easily swerved from the path of rectitude. He owned a horse which a couple of traders wished to possess. They called on the farmer, and after some haggling, gave him his price and drove off with the prize. They had scarcely gone three miles when the horse dropped dead in the road.

Seeing the farmer a few days later, they approached him with: "What kind of a horse was that you sold us the other day?"

"A good, allround horse, airs."

"Yes, he was! He dropped down dead before we got three miles from home."

The farmer listened in open-mouthed astonishment, and then exclaimed: "Upon my word of honor, gentlemen, he never done that way for me."

New View of Nero.

WHAT a nice, kind man Nero was!"

"What? Why, the wretch fiddled while Rome burned."

"I know. He'd probably waited all his life for a chance when he wouldn't disturb any one."

The Retort Bibulous.

TEMPERANCE CRANK: My friend, do you know what makes your nose so red?

Weary Raggles: Sure! It's blushing with pride because it knows how to mind its own business!

Up-to-Date Statement.

"So those motor-bike artillery soldiers are burning the bridges behind them, eh?"

"Well, practically. They are sprinkling tacks along the road."

Foresight is a thing which many of us are always regretting that we did not have.

Fresh Laid.

WHAT makes that hen in your back yard cackle so loud?"

"Oh, they've just laid a corner stone across the street and she's trying to convince the neighbors that she did it."

War's Privations.

The Fortunes of War.

First Actor: Can you let me have that five bob I lent you at Oldham?

Second Ditto: Moratorium, laddie, moratorium.

Brave Heart.

Ethel: So that if you hadn't been able to get through in the nick of time the Germans would have "interred" you, or something of that sort, as a dangerous enemy, I suppose?

Intrepid Tourist: You bet they would! But I should liked 'em to have tried it!
